The Minstrel Show a Grand Success

The Gleichen Young Men's Club may well be proud of the success they made of their minstrel show Monday night. The Opera House filled to the doors and quite a number occupied seats in the gallery.

The dance that followed was also well attended and thoroughly enjoyed.

To even attempt to described the program as rendered is beyond the ability of our entire staff, as such a classy bunch of colored gentry never before reached this far north, and we will have to pass up the task by repeating what all others remarked: "The show was better than expected."

As promised last issue we have obtained the civilian names of the artists, and they are: "Mr. W. J. McMullan, interloctor; Messrs. Water, McMillan, Scheweigert, Bradshaw, Lyons and McLean, end men; Messrs. Gamble, Bollinger, Willett, Bowen, Foster, Onstad and Harris.

The numerous southern melodies were certainly greatly appreciated by those present, if one may judge by the hearty applause following each number, and there were many good original jokes on local people that were in no way offensive and yet very funny, all told in true negro style.

Between acts the Citizens Band rendered several creditable selections, Messrs. Tudhope, Tom and Barron sang a trio and Messrs. Mc Mullen and Barron a cornet and violin duet, Mrs. Gaudaur accom panying on the piano.

Mrs. Onstad accompanied the minstrel throughout their entire program.

The last act was in the form of a very pretty tableau representing Canada and the Empire, in fact it was considerably the best thing yet produced in Gleichen of any thing in this nature.

The receipts for the evening were about $139.

In a demonstration at Martinsville this week in which nine machines took part, the Moline Universal finished its lead of one and one-third acres five minutes ahead of its nearest competitor and each tractor was pulling three plows instead of two as for us. The official time showed that it plowed an acre in fifty and one-half minutes, at a cost of fifty-six cents per acre for fuel. GENERAL SUPPLIES LIMITED, CALGARY, ALTA. 7

Returned From the Battle Front

Sergt. A. D. Batty

Sergt. A. D. Batty after an absence of five years returned to Gleichen last week with his wife and two little girls. A happy home-coming it was for them to find all well, and all ready the happy family is settling in their former home just east of town. They left here shortly before the war for a visit to the Old World and he lost no time in offering his services.

During the world's greatest war he spent six months in England and three and one-half years in France, passing through the great battles without injury and still looks fit and ready for anything.

Pte. T. W. Davidson

Pte. C. W. Davidson returned to Gleichen over a week ago, although it is now several weeks since he returned to Calgary from overseas.

"Scotty" as his friends best know him by was one of Gleichen's early volunteers and passed unscathed through the war, being practically in all parts of the battlefield where the Canadians fought so valiantly. His many friends are glad to see him safely back and wish him the best of good fortune.

Bright Prospects in West This Year

It was with his wonted optimism that Grant Hall, Vice-President of the C.P.R., spoke of the prospects this year in the West, when seen on Friday morning by a representative of the Calgary Herald. "Of course, it is rather early yet to form a very definite opinion," he added, "but from what I have seen and from reports from all over the West, there are certain grounds for casting any fit of blues to the winds."

"What acreage will be under cultivation this year in Western Canada?" he was asked by the newspaperman.

"Approximately 15,000,000 acres in the three provinces, the vice-president replied.

Turning to the labor situation, Mr. Hall was asked how many men would be employed this year in construction, incidentally mentioning that D. B. Hanna, the president of the Canadian Northern Railways, had mentioned the other day that his company would take care of about 10,000 men.

"We don't go into such close figures," laughingly replied Grant Hall, "but you can take it from me that we will be able to absorb all the labor that is offered."

"Then that means that the company purpose an extensive construction programme this year?" he was asked.

"Yes, there will be considerable work done, and this is the movement being considered by the board of railway commissioners."

Amateur Athletic Revival in Alberta

In the great athletic revival which has been stirred up throughout Alberta, it is essential that the closest co-operation exist in every section of the province in order to assure the success of the movement.

The insinuation has been made through the press in Eastern Canada, that Alberta is preparing to break away from the Amateur Athletic Union and organize a separate branch with the semi-professional idea in this province, but such is not the case. Calgary is taking active steps in the direction of a complete revival of athletics and at the same time it is proposed to bring about changes in the constitution which will tend to improve the standard of amateurs in the Dominion.

Among the prominent sport boosters in that city are many of Calgary's leading business men, who realize the vital importance of athletics to the community. The Athletic Association recently organized in Calgary with Brig-Gen. McDonald at its head, is framing a constitution with the object of co-ordinating the different branches of athletics in the city in order to stimulate interest in sport and develop local boys.

It is hoped to assist in the amateur revival and mould a form of constitution which will make a veiled professionalism with its attendant perjury and hypocrisy, unnecessary and unprofitable.

It is suggested a meeting of Gleichen citizens be called to consider the matter, when several Calgary men might arrange to be present and give an outline of the plan.

Would Injure W. S. S. Campaign

Frank Pegler, of Calgary, secretary of the National War Savings Committee for Alberta, discussing the baseless rumor that the National War Savings movement would be discontinued, stated emphatically that it was no friend of Canada who started the canard.

"Had such rumor been disseminated during the war, I would have had no hesitation in labeling it pro-German," he commented. "If there is one thing that will hurt Canada more than another just now, it is the placing of obstacles in the way of financing this country. We all know that we cannot get money from the other sources that were open before and during the war, and that we are dependent on ourselves, and the person who tries to embarrass the raising of money for the carrying on of the Dominion's business and the paying of soldiers' pensions and other military liabilities, is doing Canada a distinct disservice."

"It would be interesting to know who is responsible for the rumor."

"How is the National Savings movement going in Alberta?" he was asked.

"Excellent. Every day adds to the list of the places that are taking up this good work, and before the year is out it is expected that every population centre in the province will be a live factor in the campaign."

Alberta's first Thousand Dollar War Savings Club has been formed in Calgary. The members to date are P. Burns, Dr. M. C. Church, J. T. Burns, T. A. Hornbrook, H. T. Whittemore, M. W. Allen, Fred Temple and Robert

2 More Gleichen Boys Now Reported Killed

Alderman John Finnigan has received word of two more Gleichen boys who made the supreme sacrifice for their home and country.

One was Private John Swainland, who worked for Mr. Finnigan when he was a ranching. A fine young fellow of 22 years of age.

The other was 2nd. Lieut. George Tait, who was 23 years of age and was born in Gleichen. After fighting through all the big battles with the Canadians he was killed in action on August 1st, 1918. All the old-timers will remember this brave boy and speak of him in the very highest terms, although it is some years since he resided here.

Thus from time to time we are still learning what the war has cost Gleichen.

Dennis A. Ramabottom announces elsewhere in this issue he is opening up business in the Post Office Block. It is good to see our boys going into business in their home-town. Encourage Dennis by reading his ad. and give him some of your trade.

National Getting Together

No. 4—How to Encourage It

Admitting, as all thoughtful students of Canadian affairs must, that it is not only important but absolutely necessary in the interests of a united and progressive Canada that the gap between East and West should be bridged, not the geographical gap alone, but that more difficult chasm which has developed in the economic and national viewpoints of the people of the East and the West—it becomes the paramount national duty of statesmen, newspapers, leaders of thought in all walks of life, and the people generally, to endeavor to bring about a rapprochement between the two sections of the country. Having, in previous articles, attempted to present the two prevailing viewpoints, it is necessary to now endeavor to offer some suggestions looking to a solution of the problem.

It is of first importance that people both East and West should recognize the fact that neither has a monopoly of all wisdom, that all are Canadians and desire to advance Canada's interests and welfare, that the people of both sections are equally loyal to the Dominion and to its institutions and place in the British Empire, and that all aspirations cast by one section on the loyalty and patriotism of the other should come to a sudden stop.

As a necessary step to that end there must be a frank recognition of the fact that Canada is a country of diverse races and creeds; that these creeds are here to stay, and that it is humanly impossible, even were it desirable, to eradicate all nationalistic traits and characteristics. Consequently, the warfare which has gone on between English-speaking and French-speaking, and which has now developed into warfare between English-speaking and all who speak any other language, must cease. By this we do not mean that Canadians should not aim at having every citizen of this country become proficient in the English language as the common medium of communication of all, because, of course, in the interests of all this should be done, but it should not be done by coercive and harsh measures which only serve to antagonize and divide instead of creating sympathy and union. Even more necessary, perhaps, is it that the creed warfare between Roman Catholic and Protestant should cease. In no other democratic country in the world is there such persistent wrangling and controversy over forms of religion as has disgraced Canada, and retarded its progress, for the past half-century.

As a preliminary to a better understanding, it is essential that the people of all provinces shall be placed on a plane of perfect equality, and that cannot be until the East agrees to the transfer of their natural resources to the Western provinces. Until that is done confederation is lop-sided and still incomplete. There can be no real confederation except where all the confederated units stand in equality the one to the other. So long as any one is forced into a position of inferiority, there will be discontent and the elements of disunion.

In matters of fiscal and economic policy, a spirit of compromise must prevail where sectional interests come into conflict. Neither East nor West must seek, nor expect, to impose its views and will wholly and absolutely on the other. In other words, the manufacturing East should not insist on denying to the agrarian West a larger freedom of trade, wider markets, and the development of Western outlets in connection with the disposal of the products of the West. To do so is selfish, a dog in the manger policy, because such policies, while highly beneficial to the West, do not do injury to the manufacturing industries of the East. On the other hand, given freedom in the marketing of its own products, the West must not insist on policies which would place in jeopardy the continuance and prosperity of Eastern industry.

The development and prosperity of one section of the Dominion has a direct and beneficial effect on the other section. While both East and West might get along without the other; both will benefit more largely by the development and prosperity of the other. Therefore, each should do what lies in its power to encourage and assist the other, and both must deny themselves something for the benefit of the other; that is, there must be mutual sacrifice and co-operation for the common good of all.

These things can be brought about by better knowledge of one another. Eastern manufacturers and political leaders should visit the West more frequently, and not mere flying visits, but for the purpose of actual and close study of conditions with a view to arriving at a real understanding of Western conditions and problems. Eastern manufacturers should send some of their leaders to attend the annual Grain Growers' conventions in the West. Their official organ, "Industrial Canada," instead of always presenting the view of manufacturers to manufacturers, might well seriously and honestly endeavor to inform them of the Western viewpoint. Frank round table conferences between the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Canadian Council of Agriculture should take place periodically. Eastern men might well vary their reading by a study of such a book as "Deep Furrows," which tells the story of the rise of the Grain Growers' Association, its principles and the objects for which it is striving.

On the other hand, Western people must make a closer study of economics, world conditions, international relations and competition in trade, and must be on their guard not to adopt an extreme attitude in their demands, and, in their effort to secure the removal of what they regard as injustices to themselves, insist on what would mean injustice to others.

May Cause Labor Shortage

Thousands of Allens Sailing from U. S. Every Day

New York. — Enriched by war work, allens are leaving this country at the rate of more than 1,000 a day, it is learned here from customs officers, who express fear that, with the possibility that congress may limit immigration for the next four years, the United States will face a serious labor shortage instead of a condition of unemployment.

Since the beginning of the armistice, it is said Italians, Greeks, Spaniards and Portuguese have been pouring out of the United States through this port. Since November 7, 22,121 passports have been issued at the customs house and since December 33,000 allens have sailed.

SPRING IMPURITIES CLOG THE BLOOD

A Tonic Medicine Is a Necessity At This Season

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an all-year-round tonic, blood-builder and nerve restorer. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is loaded with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months. There is no other season of the year when the blood is so much in need of purifying and enriching, and every dose of these pills helps to make new, red blood. In the spring one feels weak and tired—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give new strength. In the spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills develop the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions and boils—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In the spring anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, erysipelas and many other troubles are most persistent because of poor, weak blood, and it is at this time, when all nature takes on new life, that the blood must seriously needs attention. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually renew and enrich the blood, and this new blood reaches every organ and every nerve in the body, bringing new health and new strength to weak, easily tired men, women and children—Here is a bit of proof: Miss Anna Patterson, R.F.D. No. 1, Thorold, Ont., says: "My trouble was one of general weakness, which thinned my blood and gave me at times unbearable headaches, loss of appetite and also loss in weight. I tried several medicines, but without success. Then I heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to give them a fair trial. The result is that I feel like a new person. My appetite improved. I gained in weight, my blood is thoroughly purified, and my face cleared of some unsightly pimples which had troubled me. If one good turn deserves another then I have much pleasure in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

If you need a medicine this spring try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—they will not disappoint you. These pills are sold by all medicine dealers, or you can get them by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Repairing Guns for Allies

Paris. — The Krupp works at Essen, the world's greatest plant for the manufacture of weapons of destruction, from which have issued more monstrous engines of war than from any other spot on the earth, now are silent and idle, paralyzed by the victory of the allies. In all the great workshops spreading over miles the only furnaces that are burning, the only wheels that turn, are in one little corner where a few mechanics are at work upon some cannon—repairing them so that the allies will accept them with the others surrendered under the terms of the armistice.

Ready-made Medicine. — You need no physician for ordinary ills when you have at hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. For coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchial troubles, it is invaluable, for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains, it is unsurpassed while for cuts, sores, ulcers and like it is an unquestionable healer. It needs no testimonial other than the use, and that will satisfy anyone as to its effectiveness.

We are told that the millennium is coming, but it isn't coming with a rush. Perhaps a messenger boy is bringing it.

Atlantic Air Liners

London. — Vickers Limited are about to start a trans-atlantic air service with airships which the company was building for the British navy when the armistice was signed and which are no longer needed, the Pall Mall Gazette says. The passenger rate will be £48 and mail will be carried at the rate of £405 a ton. — The pioneer ship will have a gas capacity of 1,200,000 cubic feet and engines of 1,000 horse power. Larger ships are being designed to carry 200 passengers.

Children Love Cascarets—10c

Candy cathartic is harmless to tender stomach, liver and bowels

Your child is bilious, constipated and sick. Its little tongue is coated, breath is bad and stomach sour. Get a 10-cent box of Cascarets and straighten the youngster right up. Children love this harmless candy cathartic and it cleanses the little liver and thirty feet of bowels without griping. Cascarets contain no calomel and can be depended upon to move the sour bile and poison right out of the bowels. Best family cathartic because it never cramps or sickens like other things.

Revolters Score in Munich
Berlin. — The battle in Munich for the central railway station ended in the complete defeat of the government troops, according to Nuremberg advices.

MAMMA! DON'T YOU SEE YOUR CHILD IS SICK, CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Move poisons from liver and bowels at once.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given. Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Starting Aviation Service

Winnipeg. — Captain Fred Campbell, who served overseas in the flying corps, is the moving spirit in a corporation now in process of organization for the purpose of starting an aerial transportation corporation in the city of Winnipeg.

The company is to be capitalized at $100,000 to start with, it is stated, and will begin operations with four airplanes as soon as organization can be completed. The company is seeking a federal charter to permit the carrying of mails, freight of any kind, to conduct the training of aviators and to start a passenger service and an aerial sight-seeing service.

Wise and experienced mothers know when their children are troubled with worms and lose no time in applying Miller's Worm Powders, the most effective vermifuge that can be used. It is absolute in clearing the system of worms and restoring those healthy conditions without which there can be no comfort for the child, or hope of robust growth. It is the most trustworthy of worm exterminators.

Germany Will Sign

Refusal of Peace Treaty Will Mean Starvation

New York. — German leaders may storm and threaten to refuse the peace treaty about to be offered to them, but when the time for signing comes they will affix their signatures, Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the Nation, predicted here, shortly after his return from a four months' visit to Berlin and Germany.

Mr. Villard, who spent four weeks in Berlin and other cities of Germany, said that cabinet ministers, peace commissioners and others had told him that no treaty similar to the one proposed would be signed.

He discounted their statements, however, asserting that when they faced the alternative of signing or "seeing ten or twenty millions of Germans starved," they would sign, just as they accepted the last extension of the armistice after threatening to refuse.

Co-Operative Horse Sales

Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture Arranging to Hold a Number of Sales

With a view to finding a profitable market for those farmers who have surplus horses, and at the same time to enable those in need of horses to get readily into touch with those who have horses for sale, the Co-operative Organization Branch of the Saskatchewan department of agriculture is arranging to hold a number of co-operative horse sales in different parts of the province. The sales are arranged in circuits so that prospective buyers may attend several sales in turn if necessary. The sales may take the form of auctions, the horses for sale being listed previously with the secretary of the local agricultural society at the point where the sale is held. The payment is required in cash, or such as the directors of the society may consider advisable, all settlements being made through the secretary of the society; of farmers may bring their animals into town on the date selected for the sale and deal privately with the buyers in attendance.

This system of selling horses has much to commend it and will probably be taken up generally in districts where more horses are produced than are needed locally. It enables buyers to inspect in a comparatively short time practically all the horses that are for sale in any district.

Nicholas, Traitor Of Montenegro

Money Received From French Treasury Given to Austria

Everybody knows of the gallant fight put up by the Serbians and Montenegrins against the Austrians, so that it will come as a shock to hear that the king of Montenegro has been playing the part of a traitor, yet so it is.

Despite the fact that for the last two years he has been living in France, wholly dependent upon the hospitality of the French government for his maintenance, Nicholas of Montenegro has recently been discovered to be giving not alone encouragement, but even a portion of the money which he received from the French treasury to the publication of a paper edited in Switzerland by Austrian subjects and circulated through Austrian agencies in the southern provinces of the dual empire opposing Jugo-Slav agreement to which the entente stands committed and which provides for the union of Serbia and Montenegro after the war under the sceptre of the Serbian regent, Crown Prince Alexander, one of the most gallant and heroic figures of the present war and of the two preceding Balkan campaigns.

The Serbs of Serbia and of Austria-Hungary, as well as the Montenegrins who are to all intents and purposes Serbs, have already intimated in no uncertain fashion their desire to be united as a Jugo-Slav nation under the sovereignty of Crown Prince Alexander of Serbia, who is, through his mother, a grandson of Nicholas.

The Montenegrins indeed look upon him and take pride in him as one of their own race. They are a brave people, who have not only harassed the Austrian invaders, but have also rendered valuable service on the entente front in France. But they will have nothing more to do with their old king, who celebrated his seventy-seventh birthday a few days ago, or with his disreputable sons, who they accuse of having betrayed their country to the enemy.

Patric Montenegro will never forgive King Nicholas for the manner in which he negotiated secretly for peace with the central powers, both through his eldest son, Crown Prince Danilo, and directly with Emperor Francis Joseph several weeks before his final surrender took place, nor will he forgive his surrender of Lovcen, the sacred mountain of the Montenegrins, surrounded by fortifications that render it an impregnable stronghold of the utmost value to the entente, because it controlled the great Austrian naval station and arsenal on the Gulf of Cattaro and occupied the most commanding position on the east Adriatic coast.

King Nicholas's order for the surrender of Lovcen was followed by another also bearing his signature for the immediate demobilization and disarmament of the Montenegrin army. Part of his troops refused to obey this command, sought refuge in the mountain fastnesses and have been carrying on a guerilla warfare against the Austrian invaders ever since under gallant Gen. Veshovich. Several thousands of other managed to make their way to France for service under the French flag on the French front. About seven thousand others, mostly recruits unarmed and defenceless, were taken prisoners by the Austrians and reduced to barbarous forms of slavery.

King Nicholas and his sons were obliged to flee from Montenegro, not from the enemy, but from their own people, who threatened them with death for the betrayal of the nation. Prince Mirko made his way to Vienna where, living in luxury on an allowance from the Austrian crown, he died of excesses last spring.

King Nicholas's chief occupation is card playing. In fact, while he was still reigning at Cetinje the Russian and Austrian envoys accredited to his court received special funds which they were to lose to the king over the card table, thus gaining his good will.

Nicholas was always playing off his son-in-law, King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, against the Austrian emperor, and the latter against the emperor of Russia in order to get money out of them. So keen was his greed for money, and so debased his conscience, that on the outbreak of the First Balkan war he actually delayed the entire operations of the Balkan League for four days while he browsed over some speculation on the stock market.

Never again will the Montenegrins, some of the bravest and most liberty loving fighters in Europe, be willing to submit to his rule.

Ungratefulness is the very poison of manhood.—Sir P. Sidney.

The Light Tractor

Special Engineering Short Course at Manitoba Dept. of Agricultural Engineering

"More than 80% of the farm tractors sold in western Canada during the past two years are light tractors of less than 25 horse power," said Professor L. J. Smith of the Manitoba Agricultural College.

When asked if the light tractor would permanently supplant the heavier type he replied: "That will depend very much on the operators." Professor Smith, who has recently visited many of the tractor firms in the south, did not wish to discuss relative values of the light high speed motor and the heavier horizontal type, but said that one fact could not be over-emphasized. "These high speed motors will require more careful attention than the low speed engine. The average motor will need to be thoroughly overhauled twice a year. This will require more careful adjustment and better mechanical skill than has hitherto been demanded of the tractor operator. He must be very careful in lubricating and must never allow loose bearings and small adjustments to go without immediate attention."

The department of agricultural engineering—of which Professor Smith is head—will lay great emphasis on this phase of the work this year, both with the regular students and in the special engineering short course. A number of high speed, four cylinder vertical motors have been procured and students will be required to knock down, assemble, adjust and operate the various types.

Operators who have had experience in overhauling automobile engines should have little difficulty in adjusting the high speed tractor motor, but they must never forget that the tractor engine gets much harder usage than the automobile engine, and therefore be more frequently adjusted if we expect it to do satisfactory work.

A Carnivorous Plant

Flowers are Prized for Decorative Purposes

The pitcher plant is one of the freaks of plant life. It grows in swampy lands, and is well known in Canada. The flowers, touched with beautiful, delicate tints, are prized for decorative purposes. But the wonder of the pitcher plant is its leaves. They are green, water-holding pitchers, beautifully veined with red and purple, with considerable variation in form. During rainfalls they are filled with water. This largely evaporates, leaving the receptacle half full. Externally these cups are smooth, while internally they are lined with fine bristles pointing downward. There is also a sticky, sugary sort of semi-fluid substance to be found around the inner margin of the bowl or pitcher. This arrangement not only attracts a large number of tiny insects, but they are so eager to feed on the sugary substance that not a few tumble into the water below and die there. They cannot fly out, for the lines of flight would be practically vertical, while hundreds of little bristles confronting them prevent escape over the surface by walking out. Many believe that the plant, through its leaves, absorbs the digestive parts of these insects, and that they thus contribute to its nutrition; in other words, that the pitcher plant to this extent is one of the carnivores of the vegetable kingdom.

The Color of the Sea

World of Waves Is Changing Constantly

The question is as old as language, "What is the color of the sea?" For the sake of convenience, says the Rev. R. P. Dawkins in "Great Thoughts," we agree to call it blue, but in point of fact every color of the rainbow and every hue of the flowers of the field belong to that wonderful world of waves. Homer described the ocean as "wine-colored." But this is only one of the hundred hues which the great deep can assume. Under bright weather, while its face is gold and white, with the large light lying upon it, you will see under the side of a ship, or even of a small boat, a patch of shadow color so delicately blue, or so divinely green, that sapphire and chrysoprase are but foolish terms whereby to indicate them. Nor can you decide which combination is more exquisite to the eye, the dark blue of the deep water, faced with the broken silver of the foam; or the teal-green loveliness of an inland gulf when the glitter of each lifting emerald ripple is backed by violet and grey; or the glory of the calm expanse under a golden sunset when the sea-scape is a far-stretching splendor of glass, mingled with fire. But the changeable glory of the sea mocks the poverty of words.

Lest We Forget!

A correspondent writes: During some campaign work I recently came in touch with an escaped prisoner of war, who had spent one year in German captivity, who related some of his experiences. He had made no fewer than six attempts to escape, and the first five unsuccessful efforts were punished in a most barbaric fashion. He had had to undergo a reduction in ration to two ounces of bread and two ounces of meat per day, then solitary confinement in a dark cell for a fortnight, with only two ounces of bread per day. The third attempt to escape called forth the horrible reprisal of being nailed to a plank of wood by the fleshy web between the thumb and forefinger, where large scars still remain. On the fourth occasion the poor fellow received three bayonet wounds in the stomach, and the punishment for the fifth effort to escape was, he said, too terrible to be related.

He who puts up with insult invites injury.—Proverb.

Denmark and the Settlement

South Jutland Wrongfully Held for Fifty-four Years

Denmark's recently reported reminder to Germany that certain provisions of the Danish-Prussian peace treaty of 1864 with respect to Schleswig have not yet been fulfilled, will not be regarded as an attempt to profit unfairly by the present plight of the beaten bully among nations. In the situation of the Danes who are an overwhelming majority in the population of Schleswig, or South Jutland, there is a standing injustice to which those who have undertaken to compel the recognition of the rights of small nations cannot be indifferent. Denmark's silence on this matter during the last few years is explained by very obvious considerations of safety.

The ancient hereditary rights of kings and dukes with which the old, vexatious Schleswig-Holstein question was concerned, are not likely to receive very great consideration in the adjustment which the allies must make. The essential considerations will be that Schleswig, or South Jutland, has been Danish from the beginning of its history, that it is inhabited principally by Danes, and that it has been wrongfully held as a part of Germany for the last fifty-four years. The principle of self-determination to which the allies are formally committed, requires that the people of this territory shall have the opportunity to make known their will with respect to the government under which they must live. It happens also that the treaty of Prague, 1866, guaranteed to the people of Schleswig the opportunity to declare themselves upon this question by plebiscite, so that such action as they may take in this instance will provide for Germany a first salutary exercise in the observance of sacred treaties.

The circumstances out of which this situation arises reveals the Prussian's opportunity, which Bismarck was quick to seize, came with the death in 1863 of Frederick William VII, King of Denmark and Duke of Schleswig-Holstein, who left no issue. What more natural than that a Prussian king should seek to add such king-less states to his dominions? Schleswig was Danish and had always been so but the Germans of Holstein sought a place in the German federation and some ancient ruler of the dual kingdom of Schleswig-Holstein had pronounced the union of the two provinces "indissoluble." The act of robbery could therefore be made to appear as something sanctioned by sacred tradition.

The inclusion in the treaty of 1866 of provision for a plebiscite whereby the people of Schleswig might express by vote whether they preferred Danish or Prussian rule was, of course, one of Bismarck's cynical concessions, made with no intention that it should be carried out in any circumstances that would bring a declaration in favor of Danish rule for Schleswig.

The Foods of the Ocean

Ten Tons to Acre Is Fair Yield of Periwinkles

In former days, "frog eaters" was the worst term of contemptuous reproach that the English could find for their neighbors across the channel.

Nevertheless, the British soldier before the war is over may possibly acquire a taste for frogs' hind legs. People in the United States consider them a delicacy, and in the best restaurants French snails commonly figure on the bill of fare.

It would be very desirable if the U. S. soldiers over there could learn to appreciate the common marine mussel, which in Europe is not less esteemed than the oyster. There are vast beds of this shellfish along the U. S. coast, unutilized. The U. S. soldier may even come to know and enjoy the periwinkle.

They have periwinkles in abundance, but it never occurs to them to eat them. Yet in France the consumption of these small univalve mollusks is enormous. All over Europe, indeed, they are sold at the shops of grocers and fishmongers. Usually they are boiled in salted water and served with butter at breakfast.

Along the coast of Brittany periwinkles are grown for market in shallow water, in beds floored with boards and fenced with wire net. The beds are filled and emptied by the tides, which bring abundant food. When eighteen months old the mollusks are big enough to be harvested, a fair yield being ten tons to the acre.

German Bread

The Deutsche Tageszeitung states that in examining samples of bread the Chemical Institute of Research of the city of Leipzig found the following foreign bodies present: feathers, thread, wadding, yeast, paper, wood, straw, gypsum, chalk, splinters and sand. The bread of one large bakery unaccountably contained about 13 per cent. of copper in the form of verdigris.

Santa Claus' Stables

Reindeer Invaluable to People of Alaska

The reindeer is the department store of the far north; he produces everything from a spool of thread to a milk shake. He is jack-of-all-trades, meat market, dairy, haberdasher, tailor, shoemaker, notion counter and jockey all rolled into one. He is even legal tender in the erratic currency of the far north, where a piece of pink soap can buy almost as much as a gold nugget.

In 1890, thirty-seven years after the purchase of Alaska, Dr. Sheldon Jackson turned up the collar of his fur coat and shuffled through northern snows on an inspecting tour of the mission stations. He discovered that the natives in Arctic and sub-Arctic Alaska were rapidly losing their source of food supply.

The whales had taken it into their heads to swim farther north away from the occasional steam launches of modern hunters; the walrus and seal followed them and disappeared. The wild caribou, simple creatures that the Eskimos and Arctic Indians had caught easily had been frightened away by the efficient guns of traders.

Besides losing the greater part of their food, their clothing supply also had stopped, because for years the Eskimos had traded ivory walrus tusks, sealskin and whale oil for Siberian reindeer skins.

The United States had to choose between feeding several thousand people or letting them starve. The latter choice was, of course, impossible, and the former was impractical on account of transportation.

In 1891, Dr. Jackson suggested to congress his plan of importing reindeer from Siberia. There had never been reindeer in this country, the Eskimos knew nothing about the animals, and congress considered the idea out of the question. But a private fund of two thousand dollars was raised by people personally interested in Dr. Jackson's plan and the first herd of sixteen reindeer was brought across Behring Strait from Siberia and landed in good condition. Siberian herders, and a little later the more intelligent and efficient Laplanders, were imported to teach the native Eskimos and Indians the ways and whereof of the deer.

Before 1902, 1,280 deer had been imported; at the last government report in 1914 there were 35,000 government deer in Alaska, rapidly increasing.

When the deer are two years old they are broken in for driving. A deer makes an average speed of from eight to twelve miles an hour. But it is not his speed that makes him invaluable as a means of transportation; it is the fact that the deer can travel across Alaska without a trail, living on the moss which carpets the country.

Dogs cannot haul enough provisions to feed themselves on long journeys, while one of these camels of the north can haul two hundred pounds of cargo, up mountains and down valleys, and finish the journey as good, if not better, physical shape than when the trip was begun.

Each Arctic mission station should own at least 5,000 deer. In the first place, a herd of deer banishes all terror of famine or isolation or extreme cold. The milk of the does is thick and creamy, and mixed with water makes a delicious drink; venison has always been considered a luxury. In the second place, the revenues gained through selling the young fawns and the meat of the older deer can eventually support the missions. And thirdly, there is always present an efficient and comfortable method of travel.

The United States government loans deer to mission stations for fixed periods of time. When the three or five years are up, the government demands the return only of the original number, and the station may keep the fawns.

Secretary Lane is reported to be a firm believer in the future of the reindeer industry in Alaska, and has suggested that venison should be made a valuable part of the nation's meat supply.

Alberta Cattle

Shipped to Saskatchewan and to the United States

A whole trainload of cattle and sheep left Calgary Saturday, October 5th, via C.N.R. for Saskatoon and other Saskatchewan points. These sheep and cattle have been purchased by the provincial department of agriculture for distribution to Saskatchewan farmers under the terms of the live-stock purchase and sale act.

The train comprised 30 cars in all, 20 cars containing 2,400 sheep and 10 cars containing 300 head of cattle. This stock was all purchased in Southern Alberta by Live Stock Commissioner A. M. Shaw.

During August and September only 4,436 cattle of all kinds were shipped from the Calgary yards to the United States, of which number 1,430 were fat dry cows, 2,976 were steers, of which a very small proportion were feeders, the balance being bulls, stags, and oxen, only 29 yearlings and one calf being shipped. No breeding stuff has gone to the United States except two small bunches trailed from Cardston to Calgary, Montana, amounting to 80 head. That a certain proportion of Alberta heifers are being butchered at home is true, but in comparison with the total number of cattle passing through the Calgary yards the number is negligible, according to E. Ward Jones of the live stock branch of the department of agriculture.

That a very heavy movement of cattle of some kinds is taking place through Calgary stock yards is, however, made plain by figures published by the Calgary Herald. These figures show that for the first nine months of this year over 90,000 cattle were received at these yards, as compared with 51,523 for the same months last year.

Dorset Sheep

Noted for Their Wool of Pure White Fibre

The history of the Dorset sheep extends well over 200 years, possibly as long as that of any of the recognized pure breeds. Their home, as the name indicates, is Dorsetshire, in the southwestern part of England. Somersetshire and the Isle of Wight have also done their part in bringing this popular breed to its present state of perfection. This breed is known by the name of Dorset Horns in Britain, no doubt to distinguish it from the Dorset Down, an English breed of Hampshire-Southdown foundation. The chief characteristics of the Dorset breed are the production of early lambs and wool of pure white fibre. They are credited by well-known wool merchants as being the only breed of sheep in Canada that produces wool without black fibres in the fleece.

The Dorset surpasses all other breeds in breeding qualities by producing more lambs in a given time and nursing them well. In weight they compare very favorably with the Shropshire, but are slightly heavier if anything. About 1885 the first Dorsets were imported into Canada, and about two years later they found their way into the United States, where they have made rapid strides, both as pure breeds and for crossing purposes. Mature rams should weigh from 200 to 225 pounds, while mature ewes should weigh from 150 to 180 lbs. They should be compact rather than leggy.

The wool of the Dorset is of the medium variety, not quite as fine as the Southdown or Suffolk, but of longer staple. It has a fine crimp and very strong texture. Fleeces range in weight from six to ten pounds each for ewes and from eight to 12 pounds each for rams, the average in the individual flocks being decided largely by the attention the stock secures during the winter and the careful attention that is being paid to fleece in the selection of sires. The latter is one of the things that will receive more attention now than it has in the past, owing to the present high prices of wool. Density and length of staple should also be kept in sight.

In the early history of the breed the Dorset was a small, horned breed with dark noses, while the Somerset was a large horned breed with pink noses. During the 18th century these two breeds were united, the result being a compact breed with pink color about the eyes and muzzles. The ewes are noted for their heavy milking qualities, which enables them to push their lambs for an early market, provided that they are always supplied the necessary food to make milk. Indeed, it is on record where the Dorset ewes' milk was used quite generally for family use in England.—Grain Growers' Guide.

Chirp Had Two Meanings

Expressed Love and Fear at Same Time

A curious coincidence of the same sound expressing love and fear at one and the same time in the animal world came under my notice the other day, writes an observer on nature matters. Whilst in the garden in the evening I chirped to my dog in the playful style of cabbies to their horses, and was rather surprised to see a young sparrow flutter towards me. Thinking the sound had called him, I repeated it, and without hesitation he flew on to my arm. I easily installed him in the hollow of my hands, where the warmth soon induced him to tuck his bill under his left wing and fall asleep. While looking for a suitable perch for him I noticed an erect green caterpillar that was trying to imitate a twig, as some of their tribe do. The vibration set him waving his body about, and as I was watching him the sparrow gave a loud chirp. There and then the caterpillar stiffened up. Thinking there could be no possibility of a caterpillar hearing, I continued watching. After a little he began his peculiar waving motions again. Bending my head towards him, I irritated the bird's nose as well as I was able. The result was the same, he instantly stiffened himself and looked quite like a twig. Again and again I experimented on him, and on every repetition of the note he assumed the rigid attitude. I think this was a very curious instance of one and the same sound expressing totally different meanings.

Not to Be Taken In

"Germany will sing small, very small, in the end, but we'll answer her like the judge."

The speaker was a well-known Toronto man. "Yes," he went on, "we'll no more be softened by Germany's penitence than the judge was by the kidnapper who wiped his eyes on his cuff and blubbered:

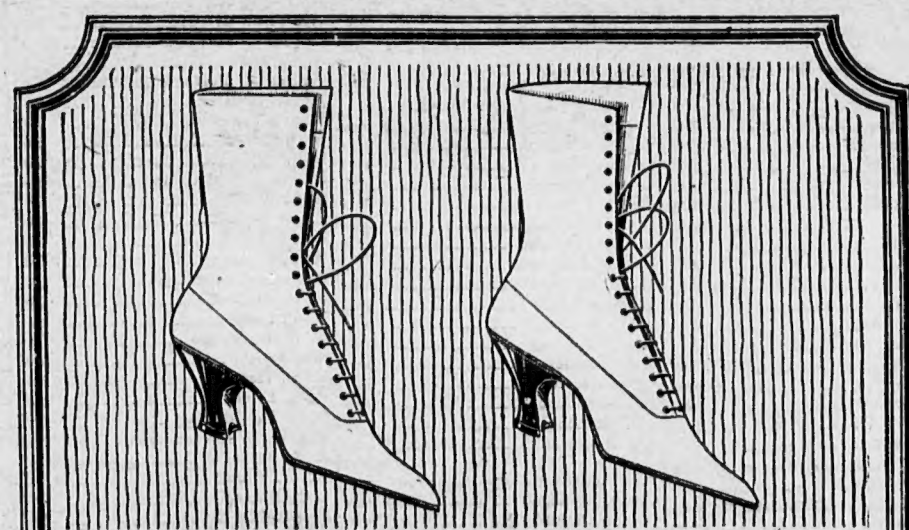

"Jedge, I'm down and out." "No, no, my man," said the judge. "You're down, but you're not out yet. You won't be out for seven years."

Solving the Nation's Shoe Problem

A LARGE section of the Canadian public depends upon this company for shoes. Our financial resources and buying power are greater by far than those of any other Canadian manufacturer of shoes; our volume of output is more than twice that of any other. Our sales organization covers the nation from coast to coast, not merely a small section at a time.

Our six branches maintain adequate stocks within the reach of every dealer in Canada, and are now serving more than 5,000 dealers, enabling them to fill orders quickly and to cut down the amount of idle stock on their shelves.

We are making every effort to use this power to help solve the big problem of providing enough good quality shoes to go around. In the face of an actual scarcity of leather, it is difficult; but it can be done if you will co-operate with us. Buy wisely, for service rather than merely for style, and see that the shoes you buy are stamped with the manufacturer's trade-mark.

Help the Y.M.C.A. Finish its Work For Soldiers

Help the "Y" Construct the Manhood that will Re-construct Canada

ALL the world now knows that the Red Triangle of the Y.M.C.A. was the "Sign of Friendship" to thousands of your brothers, sons, nephews, cousins and neighbours' boys in the last four and a half years. Wherever the Canadian Soldiers went, the "Good old 'Y'" went too. And now it is coming back home with them!

For the support which has made possible the war work of the Y.M.C.A. we thank you. Your money has been well expended. We have rendered full account.

We ask now your continued sympathy and support for Red Triangle Service for our Soldiers during demobilization, and for Y.M.C.A. work for Canada generally during the Reconstruction period. The Annual Red Triangle campaign will be held throughout Canada May 5th to 9th, 1919. The objective is $1,100,000.

For Our Men Returning

For the soldiers and their dependents, returning from Overseas, we have provided as follows:—

1. A Red Triangle man on board every ship when it leaves Great Britain, with a full equipment of games, gramophones and records, magic lantern, literature and writing materials. Where possible, also a piano or an organ. Lectures, concerts, sing songs, instruction re Government repatriation plans, and Sunday Services.

2. Red Triangle comforts and facilities for the men on arrival at Halifax, St. John, Quebec and Montreal, including coffee stalls, with free drinks, free eatables, cigarettes, candies, etc.

3. Red Triangle men on every troop train to provide regularly free drinks, eatables and cigarettes, organize games and sing songs, and furnish information.

4. Red Triangle free canteen service, information bureau, etc., at each of the 22 Dispersal centres in Canada.

5. Red Triangle Clubs in the principal cities of Canada in the shape of large Y.M.C.A. hostels to furnish bed and board at low rates and to be a rendezvous for soldiers.

6. Seventy-five Secretaries to superintend Red Triangle service in Military Hospitals, Camps and Barracks throughout Canada.

7. Tickets entitling soldiers to full Y.M.C.A. privileges for six months at any local Y.M.C.A. furnished.

In addition to our work for the returning soldiers, we have to maintain the Red Triangle service to the full for the soldiers in Siberia, as well as the work of special secretaries in Northern Russia, Palestine and Poland.

Y.W.C.A.

For the wives and children Overseas, dependent upon Canadian soldiers, and for Y.W.C.A. work in Canada generally, a sum of $175,000 from the Red Triangle Fund will be set aside for the Dominion Council of the Y.W.C.A., which is caring for the soldiers' women folk, and their little ones on the long journey, from Liverpool to Canada, and is also extending its work for Canadian girls.

For their sake also be generous when you make your contribution.

For Canada's Manhood

The Reconstruction program of the Y. M. C. A. includes the following vitally important developments:—

1. An increased service to 300,000 teen-age boys in the Dominion—the development of Canadian Standard Efficiency training; Bible Study groups; summer camps; conferences; service for High School boys, for working boys, in the towns and cities; for boys on the farm and for boys everywhere, who have lacked opportunity for mental, moral, physical or social development.

2. Inauguration of Y.M.C.A. work in the country, and the smaller towns and villages lacking Association buildings and equipment, on a plan of county organizations. This will include the establishment of Red Triangle centres for social, recreational and educational work among boys and men, in co-operation with the churches.

3. The promotion of Y.M.C.A. work among Canada's army of workers in industrial plants, both in Y.M.C.A. buildings and in the factory buildings, organizing the factory buildings of our cities by meetings, entertainments, games and sports.

4. The establishment of the Red Triangle in isolated districts where lumbermen, miners and other workers hold the front trenches of industry.

5. Besides these main fields of increased activity for 1919, we have to provide for enlarged work among railway men, college students and for our campaign to encourage physical and sex education. Under all our work we place the fundamental foundation of manly Christianity.

Please Note:

We are not asking for money to carry on our work Overseas, with the Army in Great Britain, France or Belgium. That work will continue at its maximum for some

Trial of Ex-Kaiser Not For Belgium

Paris. — The Belgian delegation at the peace conference informed the correspondent that Belgium had not been officially requested by the council of four to bring the former German emperor to trial, and that the Belgian government would feel obliged to decline to take the steps even if there were any request for such action.

The Belgian delegates hold that any action should be taken by a commission representing all the associated powers. The official Belgian view, it was said, is that the former emperor cannot be arraigned for declaring war or violating the neutrality of Belgium, or for any act preceding or coincident with the declaration of war.

After pointing out that there is no tribunal competent to hear such charges against the former emperor and no provision of international law covering such cases, the delegates said that Belgium expects that persons guilty of acts punishable under the criminal code of the belligerent powers should be placed on trial, as theft, murder and other crimes committed during the war does not relieve the criminals of responsibility.

"If the commission desires to arraign General Baron von Manteuffel for the sacking of Louvain, General von Schroeder, for the murder of Captain Fryatt and General von Sauerberg for the execution of Miss Edith Cavell, all the necessary documents will be forthcoming," said the general secretary of the delegation.

"But Belgium does not seek revenge. It wants only justice. It would be small satisfaction to lock the Kaiser up for a few months in the Saint Gille prison and those who have reported that such revenge has been offered Belgium as a solace for her wrongs, have sadly misunderstood the Belgian character, if they thought it would be acceptable.

"The only case in which the personal responsibility of the former emperor for a criminal action committed in Belgium could be established beyond doubt, is in the atrocities attending the deportations of civilians and compelling them to do forced labor in Germany. In this case, his responsibility is unquestioned."

Where They Belong

Over Two Hundred German Submarines at Bottom of Sea

New York. — Rear Admiral Sims, who commanded the United States fleet during its war time activities in European waters, said that he believed there were "205 German submarines at the bottom of the sea."

In a speech at the Bond club, a Victory Loan organization, he said: "The fleet found many submarines stuck on the bottom with indications showing that many of the men caught inside either committed suicide or killed each other."

Machinery for Norway

New York. — The liner Bergensfjord, sailing for Norway, took a cargo of machinery, the first of the kind which has gone from the United States to that country since the war began. Norway, formerly getting her machinery from Germany, is now turning to the American market for it. The liner also carried representatives of some prominent American manufacturers, going to Europe to study the international trade situation.

Quiet in Odessa

Athens. — There had been no disorders in Odessa since its evacuation by allied troops.

China Orders Japan To Leave Shan Tung

London. — The seizure of Shan Tung by the Japanese forces is the text of a very vigorous editorial in the Daily News, which points out that the future not only of the far east but of the whole world is at stake.

"Today," says the Daily News, "Japan is practically master of northern China and potentially of much more. Unless the peace conference can right colossal wrong, the Chinese will fall like ripe fruit into the hands of the Japanese to be exploited, developed, and militarized by that engaging people."

"Is this thing to happen? If it does, it needs no great effort of imagination to see what goal it leads to. It

Holland Fears Bolshevism

German Border Strengthened to Prevent Smuggling of Munitions

The Hague. — The frontier guard along the German border has again had to be strengthened because of the efforts made by Bolsheviks to smuggle arms and munitions to Holland. Ten Germans were arrested and twenty who were trying to come into the country were turned back. Every traveller who enters Holland is searched in Amsterdam. There is much interest in Amsterdam due to the demobilized soldiers, who, without a recognized leader come together daily and parade through the principal streets. While the police are engaged in trying to disband them other disorderly crowds raid shops elsewhere. Jewelry valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars have been looted. In almost every case the windows are first smashed and then when the storekeeper runs out to see what is happening he is caught and held by the mob while his shop is robbed. Others hastily put up their shutters when they see bands of men and boys approaching.

Anarchy in Munich

Robbers are Looting Houses and Threatening Banks

London. — Complete anarchy reigns in Munich, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph. "All work has ceased. Trains are not running, and robbers are looting houses and threatening the banks, the dispatch states. The first infantry regiment is said to have joined the Spartacists.

Copenhagen. — German government troops have occupied the entire town of Madgeburg, according to a Weimar dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin. It is reported there was hard fighting, with many casualties on both sides.

Threaten to Use Force

Czech Forces Concentrated at Ostrovo in Silesia

Warsaw. — Advances from Cracow state that Czech forces have been concentrated at Ostrovo and Dabrova in Silesia, close to the line of demarcation between Czech and Polish armies in that region which was fixed by the allied mission sent there. It is said that the Czechs have announced that they will settle the frontier question by force of arms.

A Czech detachment is said to have entered Polish territory at Lutynia, where it clashed with a Polish force, several Poles being wounded.

Will Claim Damages

Paris. — Germany intends to claim an indemnity from the allies, according to the Frankfurt Gazette. It says the German negotiators at Versailles will ask payment for damages sustained from aerial attacks, from the occupation of German territory by the allied troops and for the delays in concluding peace causing a prolongation of the Bolshevik and Spartan trouble.

Ambassador Going to Tokio

Washington. — Viscount Ishii, Japanese ambassador to the United States, will sail for Japan, it was officially announced at the Japanese embassy.

"The ambassador is returning to Tokio for a conference regarding various matters before the Japanese government," the embassy declared. "The ambassador will depart the first of May."

Raw Materials For Germany

May Be Allowed Before Peace Treaty Becomes Effective

Paris. — The council of four of the peace conference went into session with the question of the Adriatic again before it for consideration.

Arthur J. Balfour, British secretary for foreign affairs, took the place at the council session of Premier Lloyd George, who has gone to London.

The supreme economic council is considering the question of permitting Germany to have certain raw materials before the peace treaty becomes effective with a revision of the blockade regulations to that extent, and it is understood the prospects are good for favorable action. The economic council members are also considering a plan for the conservation of Italy's coal supplies. Belgium has been asked to name a delegate to sit on the economic commission.

German Officers Will Demobilize

Berlin. — It is officially announced that German officers will be demobilized and will formally leave the army when the war ministry is able to lighten the economic difficulties incident to their transfer to civil life.

Trade Outlook Bright

Market Is Opening for Sale of Canadian Products

Ottawa. — A cablegram to the Canadian trade commission in Ottawa, from the Canadian mission, London, states that there is a promising outlook for the sale of Canadian products, especially of foodstuffs in Scandinavia, Denmark and Holland.

Import regulations for these countries have been undergoing considerable revision. Guarantee as to destination of imports into those countries, it is understood, must be furnished by consignees, but on this point there is little difficulty, and the supplies are for home consumption.

Considerable quantities of foodstuffs have been consigned, especially to Denmark within the last month, such as wheat, flour, oils and pork products. Permits will be granted freely.

No Russian Approaches

London. — In answer to a question from John R. Clynes, a labor leader, whether approaches for peace have come from the Russian government, the premier said: "We have had no approaches of any sort or kind. None has been put before the conference."

Wants Treaty Revised

Demands Annexation of Land in Rhine Province

Paris. — The council of four took up the request of Belgium for a revision of the treaty of 1839 and Belgium's demand for the annexation of Malmédy, in the Rhine province of Prussia, southwest of Aix-la-Chapelle, and Moreauet, a small section of No Man's Land, the disposition of which was left undecided at the Vienna conference. It lies between the Belgian province of Liege and the Prussian Rhine provinces.

Until the outbreak of the war, Malmédy enjoyed the unique position of being without either a government or national allegiance. Its residents served in no army, paid no taxes and had no such modern institutions as railroads, posts and telegraphs, depending on such accommodations as were provided by adjacent countries. The only government consists of a municipal administration.

Rumanians Compelled to Retreat

London. — Russian soviet troops, after heavy fighting, have compelled the Rumanians to begin a general retreat into Bessarabia.

Playing with loaded dice is shaky business.

Turkey May Start Next World War

Germany Has Until May 15th

To Sign or Refuse to Sign the Peace Treaty

Paris. — The allied governments, according to the Temps, apparently have decided not to wait beyond May 15 for a definite answer from Germany as to whether she will sign or refuse to sign the peace treaty.

The meeting of the delegates of the eighteen powers was presided over by M. Clemenceau, who communicated to them the date on which the Germans would be invited to Versailles.

One question considered was whether the invitation should be issued in the name of the council of five, or the name of the allied and associated powers at the peace conference.

The impression prevailing after the meeting was that all should join in the invitation. The council of ten met after the delegates of the eighteen powers, and considered the procedure to be adopted at Versailles and also a number of collateral phases of the peace treaty that had been referred to the foreign ministers.

London. — There will be another world war beginning in June, 1926, according to a writer in the British Journal of Astrology. This prophet, who signs himself "Separial," asks for a serious hearing, inasmuch as he claims to have published a year in advance, in each case, the exact date of the war of 1914 and of the cessation of hostilities.

"The first phase of the next war," he writes, "will begin with Turkey, whose perfidy will lead to its final overthrow in 1921-22. At this time Prussian intrigue will dominate the position in the near east, affecting Greece, Turkey and Russia. But, according to my calculations, the great crisis will not be reached until June, 1926."

"In this great war, which may be regarded as Prussia's counter to the war of 1914-18, the malevolent forces take their rise in Vienna and Berlin, ascend to Petrograd, penetrate through the whole of Russia and descend, via the Black sea and Turkey in Asia, on to Syria and Palestine."

Another allied victory is predicted by "Separial."

Say Huns Must Be Punished

Resolution Signed by 5,000,000 United States Women

Paris. — Premier Clemenceau received from Mrs. Charles H. Farnam, of New York, the representative of the committee for the protection of women under international law, a resolution signed by 5,000,000 United States women relating to crimes against women committed by the Germans and their allies during war. The resolution denounces the German attack on humanity through womenkind as "infamous and sinister."

Super-abundant proof exists, the resolution says, of the crimes which the armies of the central powers perpetrated against women in all the countries they invaded.

Demand is made that all officers, soldiers, and civilians belonging to the armies of the central powers who perpetrated any crime against women or girls in any allied country, should be punished if possible. And that steps should be taken to prevent such outrages in the future.

Will Hurry Hudson Bay Line

Winnipeg. — The speedy prosecution of the Hudson Bay railway, so far as is possible, was practically assured by the Ottawa authorities, announced Premier T. C. Norris. The premier has just returned from the east.

The sum of $100,000 will be placed on the estimates for this season, and in all probability this will be supplemented as the occasion requires, the premier intimated. Hon. J. D. Reid, the federal minister of railways, was very sympathetic towards the proposal, but a great deal depends upon the labor and material supplies, Premier Norris said.

Peace Treaty in Two Parts

Paris. — The peace treaty will be divided into two parts, according to the latest information in the French press. The first part will concern Germany and will include a clause by which she will pledge herself to comply with all agreements to be concluded with her former allies. The second part will not concern Germany directly and will be signed only by Austrian, Bulgarian and Turkish delegates.

Another German Strike

Bremen. — A general strike has been proclaimed here. It is effective in most of the large works and on the tramways. The gas and electric lighting systems, however, are operating.

LET'S WAKE UP!

Our town should wake up to the fact that some one else is occupying the seat that really belongs to us. This intruder represents out-of-town houses that take away business that should go to our own merchants. When will our town wake up? As long as we remain asleep the intruder will keep his place. Only when we decide on the policy of co-operation are we fully awake. We have seen the havoc and ruin of neglected home interests. Now is the time for co-operation.

"If you buy out of town and all of our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town?"

Coming to Canada

Rumanian Ship Has Sailed Under Recent Trade Agreement

London. — Reuter's learns that a Rumanian steamship has left Liverpool for Montreal to load goods supplied by Canada to Rumania under the recently signed agreement.

Mr. Lloyd Harris, chairman of the Canadian trade mission, has left for Paris, where he intends to investigate the Belgian requirements with a view to ascertaining what Canada would be able to supply and thus help in the work of restoration.

Canada will be represented at a large exhibition of British manufactures which is to be held at Athens this autumn.

Relief Force for Russia

London. — News from North Russia is that the situation in the Archangel area has been considerably improved by reconnaissances against the Bolsheviks. The announcement that a relief force will shortly proceed to the front has had a marked effect on the spirits of the allied troops.

The most critical period, however, has not yet been reached, but it is believed that if the relief force is dispatched as soon as open water is available, the needed relief will be successfully accomplished.

Meanwhile recruiting for the relief force is proceeding throughout Great Britain.

Five Europeans Slain

Rioters in India Burned the Bodies of Their Victims

Lahore, India. — Further details of the rioting at Amritsar state that five Europeans were murdered. After looting the banks the rioters poured oil over everything and fired the buildings. The bodies of the victims in the National bank were burned beyond recognition.

Manager Thompson, of the Alliance bank, killed several of the rioters with his revolver before being overpowered. Everything of value in the town hall, including the official papers and records, were destroyed. The mission church and the Punjab religious depot were also burned. Several Europeans had thrilling escapes, a number of them being sheltered and housed by Indians until calm prevailed about midnight. A lady doctor in the municipal hospital escaped by hiding in a closet and dressing in native costume.

The police have behaved splendidly, saving a number of Europeans. Local troops, with reinforcements from Lahore and Jullundur, finally quelled the disturbance.

Flu Holds Up Shipping

Melbourne. — The commonwealth government has decided to prohibit the movement of all shipping from Australian ports in consequence of the severity of the influenza epidemic in Australia and New Zealand.

Fearful of Unjust Peace

German Press Denounces Conditions of Treaty

Berlin. — Semi-official French announcement of the conditions to be laid down in the treaty of peace are denounced by the German press. Prince Liehnowsky, in an article in the Tageblatt, declares France "forgets that instead of leading to disarmament, an unjustly extorted peace will bring forth only fresh armaments throwing into the shade all former armaments, because the mailed fist peace can be maintained only by the mailed fist."

Declaring that a peace of violence must be absolutely rejected, he concludes:

"Nobody can re-commence the war against us. Neither can we be starved out without the common enemy, communism and terrorism, throwing all mankind back into its primitive state."

"No German government can sign such terms," the Vorwaerts declares. "The entente statesmen must themselves settle with the inhabitants of the Saar valley who are thoroughly German, and they may find that the sums proposed as indemnities cannot be extracted, even if the last sheet is taken from our beds."

Some men are so self-confident that they are unable to distinguish between a cheer and a jeer.

Airplanes Used To Disperse Mobs

Sinla. — Airplanes were used in coping with the disorders that have broken out in the Punjab. A mob attacked a passenger train in this district and wrecked the railway station at Gujranwala, airplanes were sent from Lahore and the mob was bombed and subjected to machine gun fire from the air.

Considerable unrest still exists in Delhi and Lahore. The commissioner for the district has appointed some of the leading men to use their influence for reopening of the shops.

Otherwise, the authorities would take action.

Martial law has been declared in the districts of Lahore and Amritsar, according to announcement made here. It is said in the announcement that the government is satisfied that a state of open rebellion against authority exists in those districts. The trials of those violating regulations under martial law will be similar to those prescribed by the defence of India act.

IN MEMORIAM

(Communicated)

It is with deep regret that we have again to acknowledge the loss of another Queenstown homesteader. The news of the death of John Melvin Aasgard came to the countryside as a distinct shock, for he was one of our younger men and possessed remarkable health and strength until the recent fatal illness overcame him.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Aasgard, were residing in Osseo, Wisconsin, at the time of his birth in 1891, and it was there that he spent the earlier part of his life. In the year 1909 he came to Canada with other members of the family and settled in this district. Shortly after his arrival here he took a homestead and proved up on it, thus commencing his residence here as a pioneer. Beginning farming operations on such a small scale he gradually, by patience and perseverance, became one of our largest local land-owners and one of our most progressive farmers.

Although he never held any public office in the municipality, he was one of our most popular residents and repeatedly attended U.F.A. conventions. He was extremely likable and every patron of the store at Milo knew the brightness of his smile and the cheeriness of his greeting. In the local social life he was one of the most prominent members of the community and had the art of not only enjoying himself, but of helping others to that end. As a neighbor he was kind and brotherly and as helper in time of need he was ever ready to serve. During the influenza epidemic of last fall he was almost constantly on the go for the welfare of the community and travelled upwards of three thousand miles in his McLaughlin on errands of mercy.

This spirit of helpful service was the last characteristic which found activity previous to his decease, for it was "relief work for others" that led him to defy his illness in its earlier stage. He continued his helpful service until his health completely failed on March 21, and he was forced to remain at home. Medical aid was at once summoned and the brave fight for life, which lasted almost two weeks, commenced. He had medical skill and splendid physique on his side and successfully passed the first crisis, but, a second attack, following immediately, carried him off quietly early in the morning of April 4. He was conscious to the last but never flinched or gave evidence of anxiety or fear as the certain end drew near.

The distressing part of his decease is that all his relatives residing here were stricken with the flu at the same time, and a telegram brought his parents from Long Beach, Cal., four days after his death. To the parents and the bereaved brothers and sisters the heartfelt sympathy of the entire neighborhood is extended for the one who is gone who was dear to us all.

Ample testimony was given, of the high place he held in the estimation of the district by the number of friends who gathered together for the local service on April 9. Weather conditions being very favorable, the service was held out-doors and the attend was large. After the service upwards of a hundred filed silently by to view the remains—an eloquent tribute to his memory. Although the floral tributes present were few in number, a considerable sum of money was handed over by friends for the purchase of wreaths and sprays at the place of burial.

The remains were shipped from Cluny for interment in Osseo, where the final service was held, and the graveside rites performed in the presence of friends of his childhood and relatives there resident on April 13 by Rev. Aunie, of that place. Locally, we shall feel his loss, but our loss is his gain.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. George E. Macomber wishes to express her sincere thanks and appreciation for the splendid help and sympathy extended to her in her recent bereavement.

Namaka Doings

H. Webster carried all the prizes for his Galloway bulls at the Calgary fair and sold the stock at fair prices.

The call of the National Elevator man at Namaka is the same as that of the elevator man at the Hudson's Bay: "Going up, stops at all floors."

Lieut. Gus Marcy returned from the front last Saturday. There was a good contingent of Namaka people to meet him on the platform and to respond to the three cheers for his safe arrival home. Gus left with the 82nd Battalion as a private and earned his commission and the Military Medal at the front. The sad part of his return is that his wife died of influenza last November and he has four children to care for. All Namaka people unite in wishing him good fortune in the future.

A peevish voice behind her cut short the brief diversion, and turning she saw that her father had come out of the French window on to the lawn. He was wearing an old-fashioned frock coat, a white waist coat and a tall hat dating well back into the last century.

"I have made a great effort, my dear child, to be with you on this momentous occasion," he said pompously. "I ought really to be in bed. It is inconceivable of you to keep me waiting. It is time you started for the church as we have got to walk. I hope I shall be able to get so far. When your mother and I were married we drove to church—separately, of course, but we drove."

"It is all rather different now, father," said Mavis with a pathetic smile. "Never mind. I am quite ready. I arranged myself, as far as I intend to when I got up. Let us start by all means."

They turned into the Court carriage drive, and to the girls' relief there were no signs of the bridegroom. She had scarcely seen him for days, and she could hardly have borne it if she had had to walk through the village with him. It was bad enough to have the simple, kindly folk who had known her from childhood peering from their cottage windows, though there was no open demonstration of interest. She had contrived to have the word passed round that anything of the kind would be distasteful to her, and the villagers had loyally abided by her wish. When they reached the church they found it empty save for the vergers and Mrs. Burbury, nodding and smiling from the rectory pew as though Mavis were her dearest friend.

On entering, Archibald Comlyn glanced at the altar rails, where by all the rules the bridegroom should have been awaiting the bride. He frowned as he buttoned his frock coat before giving his daughter his arm to lead her up the aisle.

"Atrocious bad taste on Morgan's part to be late," he whispered loudly. "I shall catch my death of cold if I have to stand long in this draught. Here Penwarden, to the vergers, 'shut those windows, will you.'"

But by the time they reached the chancel the purr of a motor outside broke the stillness, and a moment later Jasper Morgan strode in, followed by Zimbalist. That all had not gone smoothly with the pair was evident from the clenched jaw of the principal and the furtive side glances of his jackal. Mrs. Burbury noted it and wondered a little, but being on the whole pleased with a union which would, she thought, be to her benefit, she graciously accounted for it by nervousness.

Morgan, with a perfunctory bow to Mavis, who never so much as raised her eyes to him, took his station at the rails, while Zimbalist, stepping delicately, ranged up behind. That stage wait began. Mrs. Burbury coughed authoritatively, conveying a hint to the Reverend Laurence Clegg to appear from the vestry and put everyone out of their misery.

But the vestry door by which the curate should have made his entry remained obstinately shut. The Reverend Laurence seemed in no hurry to officiate at a ceremony to which he had secretly opposed such energy. Morgan's face grew black as thunder; Zimbalist, as jumpy as a cat, raised tremulous fingers to steady quaking lips; Archibald Comlyn stood first on one leg, then on the other, audibly grumbling at the delay. Only Mavis was outwardly unmoved, though her pallor was now that of hewn marble.

And then, suddenly, the tension was snapped by the quiet opening and shutting of the church door and by the trend of footsteps on the age-worn stones. In the expectation that it was the curate at last the members of the little party at the altar rails turned their heads to see, even Mavis in her desperate yearnings for release from this horrible strain. She had need of all her courage then, for the newcomer was not Laurence Clegg, but Tony West, who with all due reverence, tipped up the aisle and slipped into a seat half way between the door and the chancel. He had schooled his usually expressive features to an unreadable mask—except for the girl who had seen him as a boy set his teeth like that when a lively ferret had bitten deep into his thumb. She wondered vaguely what he was there for. Not to make a scene, she hoped. Nothing he could do could do any good.

Morgan's violent temper broke down under the silent menace of his rival's entry. "Here, you sexton, clerk or whatever you call yourself," he bellowed at the trembling blend of those functions, "go and see if that damned parson is in the vestry and yank him out."

Penwarden, thinking that the end of the world had come, hastened to obey, but Mrs. Burbury rose majestically to enter her protest.

"Dear Mr. Morgan, remember that you are in the House of God. I will deal with Mr. Clegg at the proper time."

The furious man at the altar rails ignored the intervention of the Al-mighty's self-constituted deputy. His sombre eyes were on the vestry door whence the grey-haired servant of the church returned almost immediately to announce that Mr. Clegg was not there.

"Then go and look for him, you fool," thundered Morgan, breaking all bounds. "Go to his kennel and lug him here by the scruff of his ear. I hold the archbishop's license to be married anywhere at any time. I'll break this measly curate if he doesn't show up."

The clerk slunk off, and there was a hush in the storm till at the end of half an hour Archibald Comlyn provoked a fresh outbreak by proposing the postponement of the ceremony. He was, he avowed, being rapidly killed by the combination of chill and stiffness, and if Mr. Clegg did not arrive in five minutes he would take his daughter home.

"You won't do that," Morgan savaged at him. "You can go to hell yourself, but your daughter only leaves this church with me—as my wife or not. We will find a parson in some other parish if this swine doesn't turn up."

All pretence of silent reverence in the sacred building had been cast to the winds. Mrs. Burbury came from the rectory pew, her outraged devotion to ecclesiastical ritual getting the better of her private interests.

"You won't be able to do that," she bearded the hectoring bully. "It is nearly two o'clock now, and marriages are not legal after three. The nearest church is five miles from here."

Morgan's great fleshy face was a tumb of passion as he towered over the woman who till now had fought on his side.

"In that case, madam," he shouted, "we will cut the parson out till we can bind the contract. This is a put-up job, but I won't have it. Miss Comlyn goes away with me, and she'll be glad enough to go before a clergyman tomorrow, I'll bet."

Sir Anthony West had been a vigilant spectator at this unseemly brawl, forgotten, perhaps, in the later stages of the fight. He had been sitting in the pew half way down the aisle, in rising he knocked over a pile of hymn books off the shelf. The chatter drew all eyes to him. Drawing the weapon he had bought for self-destruction the night before, he levelled it at the easy target of Morgan's massive bulk.

"Atrocious bad taste on Morgan's part to be late," he whispered loudly. "I shall catch my death of cold if I have to stand long in this draught. Here Penwarden, to the vergers, 'shut those windows, will you.'"

But by the time they reached the chancel the purr of a motor outside broke the stillness, and a moment later Jasper Morgan strode in, followed by Zimbalist. ## Nova Scotia Man Is Enthusiastic

For Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Made Him Well

A Year of Growing Kidney Trouble Brought Bright's Disease but He Found a Help in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Belleville, Yarmouth Co., N. S. April 21st. (Special).—"You can tell everyone that it was Dodd's Kidney Pills that made me well." This is the joyful remark of Mr. Alcide Meuse, a well-known and highly-respected resident of this place. Mr. Meuse, who suffered for a year from kidney trouble, is enthusiastic in his praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills. "I think everybody ought to use them all the time," he says. Then he gives the reasons for his enthusiasm.

"I first caught a cold," Mr. Meuse states, "and kidney trouble followed. My sleep was broken, my eyes were puffed and swollen and I had dark circles around them. I was often dizzy and always thirsty. My skin itched and burned at night. I was troubled with nervousness and my limbs were swollen."

"I had cramps in my muscles, backache and headache. Then Bright's Disease developed. A doctor attended me but the first real relief I got was from Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took eight boxes of them and they cured me."

All of Mr. Meuse's troubles came from sick kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured his kidneys and he felt well all over. That's why he's enthusiastic. For sound kidneys make pure blood and pure blood is the foundation of health.

well by sight, lined up in front of him with the other delinquents was a picture of gaping astonishment. But he was a creature of routine and quickly recovering himself, booked the distinguished prisoner's name, age and address with creditable sang froid.

"Shall you want to take my finger prints now or at some subsequent stage?" inquired Kenyon gravely.

A humorous twinkle crept into the inspector's eye. "It will be at the later date," he replied with equal solemnity. "Now, all you ladies and gentlemen not connected with the management of number seventeen, Brown street, how went on, 'you can go away as soon as you can find fault. Till then you will have to go to the cells.'"

A chorus of protest from the fashionably clad decadents arose. It was two o'clock. It would be impossible to find bail at that time of night. Well, could they use the station telephone to ring up their friends? No, they couldn't. It was against the rules, but they might send the cabmen who had brought them. If they could induce them to go.

Then it was that Mr. Taplin, dropping the mantle of "Lord Burngillow," raised a sonorous voice.

"You're never going to lock me up?" he pleaded. "I am an officer of the Bucks County constabulary."

"More shame to you for being in such a place," rejoined the inexorable orbiter at the desk. "That'll do," he nodded to the burly sergeant who was his chief aide-de-camp, "hand 'em down to the cells. Needn't put 'em in with the drunks if it can be helped."

Knowing, none better, the machine-like grip of the law, Kenyon allowed himself to be herded with the rest to the cells, wondering whimsically if he was to spend the night with "a drunk." But for him was out of the question. All his friends were out of town. To arrive at Comlyn by noon next day was equally out of the question. But he had not failed to note the inspector's recognition of him and he was not without hope that it might bear fruit.

The hope grew when he found himself ushered into a cell which had no other occupant, and it crystallized when a few minutes later, the inspector who had taken the charge slipped in. The humorous twinkle had expanded into a grin.

"Now, Mr. Kenyon, what's the game?" he said. "I have had a Lord Chief Justice in these cells on the same charge, but I never heard that you were fond of a flutter with the cards."

"If I am any more sure that like the reformed character in the Sunday stories, I shall never touch a card again," was the non-committal reply. "But, seriously, I want you to make an exception in my favor as to that telephone regulation. I simply must get on to Sir Savile Weldon."

Control Aliens Another Year

London.—The house of commons passed the second reading of the alien's restriction bill, which maintains for one year after the war all power of controlling aliens. Already the experience of the war had proved the necessity of an elastic system dealing with this matter through orders in council.

The immigration of all grades of all aliens practically ceased under the present law, it was pointed out during the discussion, and the bill was simply a continuation of that law.

Accommodation Limits Repatriation

London.—An official statement says that grave arrears in the repatriation of overseas troops at the end of February, owing to the shipyard strikes, are now being rapidly wiped out. With regard to Canadians, the limitations is not one of shipping, but of rail accommodations for distribution in Canada. The total Canadians to be moved is 272,898 and the number who have already sailed or have arranged to go, to the end of April, is 144,828.

Farm Architecture and Building AN ATTRACTIVE HOME

Big Profits With Sheep

Sheep Industry in Western Canada Is Growing Apace

The first sheep in Western Canada were large flocks on the range. During the last few years, however, smaller flocks on fenced farms have begun to make their appearance. The growth of the industry in this manner has no doubt been assisted by the encouragement of the government in bringing about a practical system of grading the wool. The enormous profits which farmers are making with sheep has also been an incentive to this industry.

The following experience as related by a Saskatchewan farmer is by no means uncommon: In June, 1917, he purchased forty-one ewes at $15.00 each, and forty-eight lambs at $6.00 each, the total initial cost being $950, including freight charges and expenses.

Last year he sold wool to the value of $350, and lambs to the value of $574, which gives an income to the flock up to the end of December, 1918, of $924. He has 78 ewes left which he considers are easily worth $20 each, or $1,560, so that his original investment of $950 has produced $2,484.

The sheep industry in Western Canada is growing apace. Farmers have a few obstacles to overcome in starting the business, such as fencing their farms suitably, but such work as this can be looked upon as a permanent improvement and the advantages are worth the initial expense.

The results obtained are good dividends on the original investment. It is estimated that this year Western Canada's wool production will be more than four and a half million pounds.

SAT UP IN BED TO GET HER BREATH

Palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, inability to lie on the left side, feelings as if smothering, oppressed feeling in the chest, dizzy and faint spells, tired, weak, worn out feeling, involuntary twitching of the muscles, sleeplessness, restlessness, all point to the fact that either the heart or nerves, or both, are not what they should be. Any of these conditions should be remedied immediately so as to avoid a complete breakdown of the whole system.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will bring energy to the weakened constitution, strengthen and regulate the heart, and tone up the tired, overstrained nerves.

Mrs. William Steeves, Chemical Road, N.B., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles and palpitation of the heart, which was so bad I had to sit straight up in bed to get my breath. I could not lie on my left side at all. I tried doctor after doctor, also several different remedies, but got no help from them. My mother insisted on me trying Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. By the time I had used one box, I was feeling very much better. I took in all three boxes, and now I am in perfect health and can enjoy a good sound sleep, and can lie on my left side without any trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BUILDING NOTES

Appearances at Edmonton indicate that there is going to be greater activity in the building trade there this year.

Several parcels of land in the Cartwright district have changed hands recently, among the number being the sale of a farm and effects, the property of W. H. Barry, to a returned soldier from Winnipeg. This deal was put through as a going concern, a number of horses, cattle and an outfit of implements going with the farm.

Permits issued for buildings in Calgary during the month of March totalled the sum of $195,400. This figure indicates the amount of work that is going on, and may at the same time be taken as an indication of the amount of construction that the spring months will see opening up. One of the city officials said the prospects were exceedingly bright, and he expected to see a big year in the city. The permits so far are away in excess of any for several years past, and the big amounts are yet to come. The Alberta Flour Mills are commencing work on buildings, that will cost one million dollars before completed; the exhibition board is going ahead with its $115,000 work; the Lancaster building is being finished at a cost of $50,000, and work on the Georgian warehouse is about to start, entailing an expenditure of $30,000. Extensions of waterworks costing $200,000; the Louise bridge and the sewerage disposal plant are civic undertakings, while work is under contemplation by the Dominion government.

Show Your Patriotism By Building Now

Rents continue to advance. Many tenants are asked to pay all the way from 10 per cent. to 100 per cent. increase, and cannot get a lease for an extended time, at the advanced rates. This the leaseholder considers one more injustice added to the many items that make up his budget of high cost of living.

The landlord, that very necessary and much abused person, now finds through the law of supply and demand, that he can advance rents, and he is not slow to take advantage of conditions that now prevail, and are growing more acute each day.

The owners of rental property since 1914 have leased at rentals, in many instances, that would not pay the carrying charges. Many buildings have been all or partly vacant with the result that taxes and interest have gone unpaid and Mr. Landlord, in many instances, must raise rents or his properties will be sold for taxes or foreclosed under the mortgage. Pre-war rentals will not satisfy the property owners. They are entitled, by the law of supply and demand, to a rental of about 30 per cent. advance over rentals that prevailed in 1912-13.

There will be a great many renters that will move this spring, and when the shifting is over many will be left

The Practical Economy Of Good Paint

Good paint is never an expense, but a saving. By its use you save your buildings from a steady deterioration in value. The use of cheap material is a waste of money—a waste of time.

without a desirable place to live in, in the city, and will have to take a cottage at the lake, or go to a cottage in the suburbs. This may take care of the renters now, but when winter quarters are required, this fall, the chances are they cannot be had, unless a very aggressive building campaign is launched.

The slogan adopted by the brick-makers and supply men, "During the war it was patriotic not to build, now we can best show our patriotism by building," should be taken seriously, and each and everyone who had planned to build in the near future should get at it at once. There will be nothing gained by waiting.

Lumbermen are Busy

Winnipeg, Man. — Anticipating a heavy demand for sawn lumber, the Finger Lumber company of The Pas, will keep the lumber camps on the Carrot river going throughout the summer months, and the big mill at The Pas will run night and day shifts as long as there are logs to saw.

Forests Bring Large Revenue

Vancouver, B.C. — The value of the products of the provincial forests for 1918 aggregated $54,252,313; in 1917, $48,300,469; in 1916, $35,526,000; in 1915, $29,150,000.

After many years of work a railroad tunnel under the Pyrenees, between Eastern Spain and France, nearly twenty miles long, has been completed.

Shorthorns On the Range

Western Stock Industry Needs Bigger Cattle to Ensure More Beef

Mr. A. E. Cross, Calgary, Alta., who carries on an extensive ranching business in Alberta, makes the following statement:

"I could not carry on a cattle business without Shorthorns. Not saying anything derogatory of other breeds, the Shorthorn suits our purpose, and we are running a herd on the open range. They make us 200 pounds more beef than would be possible with other cattle." He also states that what the western cattle industry needs is bigger cattle, which insures more beef to the animal, there being no difference between fixed charges on a 1000-lb. steer and a 1200-lb. steer. Mr. Cross uses both Shorthorn and Hereford blood, claiming that he gets the best results from cattle which carry about two-thirds Shorthorn and one-third Hereford blood.

B. J. Erwin, Douglas, Wyo., marketed his two year old range-bred steers weighing 1041 lbs., practically the same weight as the average three year olds from the same range; and the steers of the Fiddleback outfit by Shorthorn bulls weighed 1230 lbs. at Omaha, about 200 lbs. more than the average steers not carrying Shorthorn blood.

Wherever the Shorthorn goes we can trace its influence for good. Big, growthy, sappy steers are characteristic results from using Shorthorn bulls on the range, as elsewhere.

For Colds, Catarrh or Influenza.

Do you feel weak and unequal to the work ahead of you? Do you still cough a little, or does your nose bother you? Are you pale? Is your blood thin and watery? Better put your body into shape. Build strong! Now's the time.

An old, reliable blood-maker and herbal tonic made from wild roots and barks, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This "nature remedy" comes in tablet or liquid form. It will build up your body, cure your cold, and protect you from disease germs which lurk everywhere. One of the active ingredients of this temperance alterative and tonic is wild cherry bark with stillingia, which is so good for the lungs and for coughs; also Oregon grape root, blood root, stone root, Queen's root—all skillfully combined in the Medical Discovery. These roots have a direct action on the stomach, improving digestion and assimilation. These herbal extracts in the "Discovery" aid in blood-making, and are best for scrofula. By improving the blood they aid in throwing off an attack of influenza and act as oil on machinery.

Catarrh should be treated, first as a blood disease, with this alternative; then, in addition, the nose should be washed daily with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy which can be had at drug stores.

Central Butte, Sask.—"I have used the 'Golden Medical Discovery' for a number of years and am pleased to recommend it as a blood purifier. I know it has no equal. I think my boy would not be alive to-day had it not been for the 'Discovery.' I also keep it on hand for coughs as it differs so from other medicines, instead of upsetting the stomach as cough syrups do, it is good for the stomach."—Mrs. Percy Wood.

Barnia, Ont.—"Had indigestion so badly I was always in misery. I had liver trouble as well, and the two just put me 'down and out' for about five years. I had many good doctors but got no relief. I took the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and before I had taken two bottles I was much improved, and in less than six months I was well. I could eat anything."—Mrs. Annie Bacon, 226 Durand St.

SCIENTIFIC FARMING AND THE NEED OF AN AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION

ADDING MILLIONS TO THE WEALTH OF CANADA

The Application of the Principles of Scientific Farming Makes For the Possibility of Vastly Increasing the Production on Our Farms and Brings Fresh and Progressive Ideas to Farmers

Canada is primarily an agricultural country.

In practical education, therefore, a first consideration should be agricultural education.

What meagre sums we have expended in agricultural education in comparison with the importance of the industry!

We have done a lot for the farmers, some contented.

As a matter of fact we have done comparatively little for our farmers.

Speaking of farming, how many minds, when thinking of farming, go beyond the mere thought of a plow, a team of horses, a mow, a binder, a shanty, and plenty of hard work.

Compared with a little country like Denmark we in Canada are in our infancy in the matter of scientific farming.

Some men—and women, too—imagine that any technical farming education which takes a few of our sons out of overalls and smocks and turns them into expert teachers and counsellors is dangerous.

Yet, if we look about Canada today and seek out the individual who has done most to promote wealth in Canada, would we be far amiss in naming Dr. Saunders, the man who gave Marquis wheat to the nation and the world? He might have farmed eighty or a hundred acres, kept a few cows and horses, made a living quietly and unostentatiously and never been heard of. But he followed along lines of scientific agriculture, he profited by his technical education, and his hours were spent in the laboratory and watching the result from a few heads of grain raised under special conditions and for a special purpose. The sum total of his study will ultimately add hundreds of millions of dollars to the wealth of Canada. We have not the time to tell the story of a life of devotion to scientific agriculture, but we do know that from the commercial or financial standpoint this one student of scientific farming has done more for Canada than many captains of industry, or great railway builders or kings of finance, or statesmen. All the money spent in Canada for scientific agricultural education has been worth while if we could point to no other product of our agricultural colleges than Dr. Saunders. To make our point plainer, his experiments, finally applied to farming, mean an average increase on every acre sown to wheat of nearly four bushels, and a greater guarantee from frost danger, by reason of the earlier ripening of the new variety of wheat.

Agricultural education!

It has been little short of a joke.

We have not, as yet, given serious consideration to agricultural education. Our parliamentarians, as well as the press and public, have been neglectful of agricultural education.

We cry out in one breath for more agricultural education, but we forget to say in another breath that the means and facilities must be provided.

True, in Manitoba we have spent millions on Agricultural College buildings—speculating politicians of other days are aware of the fact—but how much concentrated general public interest has there been on the educational side?

At the present moment we are face to face, afresh, with the question of agricultural education. It is proposed to sell the present splendidly equipped Agricultural College buildings and site to the Dominion government, take the old buildings and small site up the Assiniboine river in part payment, put away a balance of $1,600,000 in the treasury, and start practically anew.

Is the move a wise one? We do not pretend to say. But we do know that the matter is one of such vital and vast importance to the province and the nation, that we should consider well every step before anything irrevocable is done. The best counsel should be called in. The $1,600,000 looks very tempting in times like these. But in some matters the saving of money means retarding the progress of the country. Education of every character means expenditure and the more and better the education the greater the financial outlay. Upon second thought, therefore, if the sale of the present Agricultural College buildings, means retardation of agricultural education, are we really saving? Even the interruption of the alfalfa tests, now in progress for two or three years, might mean more of a loss to the province than all we should gain.

We look to see the day in Manitoba when the science of farming shall be better understood. We have referred to the absolute necessity and the possibility of vastly increasing our production on the present acreage. The science of farming taught in our college and in some of our schools must bring fresh and progressive ideas into farming. Instead of so many herds of scrub stock, scientific farming will introduce thoroughbred stock. Contrast a fine stock farm with the ordinary scrub stock farm.

Lack of education today results in a loss annually, in this province alone, amounting to millions of dollars. We are not speculating in our ideas; we are dealing with proved facts, established by the experience of other countries.

Again, let us add that it is not for us to say what the immediate policy should be with respect to the Agricultural College buildings, but we appeal to our government and to every citizen, to weigh well every fact and phase of the whole educational question, before taking any step which may stop, if only for a time, progress towards better farming in the banner agricultural province—by nature at least—of the whole Dominion—Winnipeg Tribune.

Aeroplane Beats

Long Range Gun

Observers Locate Position to Be Bombed or Shelled

Between the artillery on one side and the flying corps on the other there is a deadly warfare waged. From its very birth a long-range gun is in danger.

The first workings and railway tracks necessary for the construction of a giant long-range gun are probably noted by the keen eyes of some observer on a long reconnaissance flight. Progress is carefully watched and the exact position noted, so that when the time comes the gun may be bombed or shelled.

If the gun, owing to the caution of the enemy, has not been noticed, its very shot will give away its position. At once an aeroplane, with an observer and camera in the back seat, is sent over to find out its exact position. Series of photographs are taken of the territory in which it is known to lie, so that, even if the observer cannot see it from above, the tell-tale photographs will give away its position.

The photographs are developed immediately. Then they are examined by experts, who detect amid a small copse the round outline of a concrete barbette, which has been cleverly painted in order to make it appear like a part of the wood. A railway line is observed running to it, and a small branch line to another part of the wood is apparently under construction, which shows that the enemy are intending to build a second emplacement. The wood is found on a map, and the exact position is marked and sent to the artillery.

Steps are then taken to destroy the gun. An aeroplane, equipped with wireless, is sent up, and the battery assigned to the task of destroying the menace arranges to open fire at a certain hour.

The hour arrives, and the observer, watching the little copse sees a column of earth and smoke arise. The very next minute the little barbette presses the little brass key in front of him. The blue flame of the wireless spits and splutters. "Over 500 yards," it says. Again he looks below and sees once more a tremendous burst of smoke in the wood itself. Again he sends a correction.

For some time this continues, and at last he sees one or two bursts right on the gun emplacement, and very near it, while all round the wood lie the great craters of the shell holes.

All this time he has been subjected to the shelling of the anti-aircraft guns and the occasional attack of scouts. At last time is up and he returns home—his work is done. For several days the little town far behind the lines is shaken no more by the thunder of the great 15 inch shells.

The aeroplane has once more beaten the gun.

St. Bernard Dogs

Killed for Food

Slaughtered on Account of the Meat Shortage

All but six of the famous St. Bernard dogs kept by the monks of that ancient monastery in the Alps have been killed. Shortage of meat caused by the war led to this massacre.

The St. Bernard pass is of historical renown. It connects the valleys of the Rhone and the Dora Baltea. It was traversed by Roman legions thousands of years ago. In mediæval times the pass served the armies of conquerors and the hands of mercenaries. Napoleon crossed the Alps at this point in 1800.

The great monastery was built in the middle of the sixteenth century. It was maintained for the relief of travellers who were surprised by snowstorms while crossing the pass. The St. Bernard dogs were used to find the frozen victims of the storms and carried the first aid to the injured in a little basket attached to their collars. These dogs rescued thousands of human beings, many of whom were of historical prominence. And for the first time in the history of the world the dogs were to be slaughtered for want of food.

At other times a report of this sort would create profound interest in Paris, but at present the human race is thinking of its own necessities and cares less about dog heroes living more than 8,100 feet above the surface of the sea.

Today the people of France are restricted in the consumption of meat, bread or any other article of food in making of which dough or flour is used, and sugar. There are three meatless days and to prevent any one buying meat in advance the rule restricts purchases to 200 grams of meat on a day preceding a meatless day.

Der Tag

Fast Growing Dark for the Greedy Germans

For years the Germans touched glasses and drank to "Der Tag" (the day). They smacked their lips in anticipation of the booty the Fatherland would acquire in a victorious world war. The dawn of "Der Tag" came upon a sleeping world, June 9, 1914. In the twilight hours this circular went throughout Germany, as the first step in preparation for the great world war.

"June 9, 1914: General staff to all intendents. Within twenty-four hours after receipt of this circular you are to inform all industrial concerns by wire that the documents with industrial mobilization plans and with registration forms be opened, such as are referred to in the circular of the commission or Count von Waldersee and Caprivi of June 27, 1887—N. 421 de Mobilization."

On the same day a circular was sent over a wider territory, having in mind the preparation for war, the excuse of which had not yet come.

"Circular June 9, 1914. From the general staff to all military attaches in the countries adjacent to Russia, France, Italy and Norway. In all branches of German banks in Sweden, Norway, Switzerland, and the United States special war credits have been opened for subsidiary war requirements. The general staff is authorizing you to avail yourselves in unlimited amounts of these credits for the destruction of the enemies' factories, plants, and the most important military and civil structures. Simultaneously with the investigation of strikes it is necessary to make provision for the damaging of motors, of mechanism, with the destruction of vessels, setting incendiary fires to stocks of raw materials, and finished products, deprivation of large towns of their electric energy, stocks of fuel and provisions. Special agents, detailed to be at your disposal, will deliver to you explosive and incendiary devices, and a list of such persons in the country under your observation, who will assume the duty of agents of destruction. (Signed) Dr. Fischer, general army councillor."

The alarm clock of war set June 27, 1887, did not awaken the world until Belgium was invaded August 4, 1914. "Der Tag" was here—a glorious sunrise for Germany. It dragged on till mid-noon of March, 1918 and "Der Tag" was still bright for Germany. But with the U. S. army at last on the battle line, "Der Tag" began to wane. It is fast growing dark for greedy, murderous Germany. In the midnight hour the allies will march into Berlin and "Der Tag" will never more be drunk by the Germans. But to the rest of the world it will be the great day when Prussianism was crushed.—Successful Farming.

Rail Transportation in Italy

Service Is Greatly Inconvenienced Through Lack of Coal

Lack of coal as well as lack of transport facilities is the shadow of sufficient rolling stock have been the cause of many difficulties on the Italian railways. The passenger service has been greatly inconvenienced, while the goods service has found great difficulties in coping with the demands made upon it. The use of lignite in Italy as a substitute for coal has been strongly urged, but here, again, it has been pointed out that its greater bulk as compared with coal, coupled with the transport difficulties, presents a considerable problem as regards its use at a distance from the localities in which it is produced. The high prices charged for seasonable fruits and other articles of food in some parts of the country are also attributed in some degree to lack of efficient transport. According to the Corriere della Sera, railway trucks are to be expected from America in the spring and in the meantime Signor Villa has endeavored to supply the needs of the railways by obtaining trucks from England. It was found, however, that these were of too light a make for use on the Italian railways with their steep gradients, and arrangements have been made by which they are to be consigned to France, while that country in exchange send a certain quantity of more heavily built cars, provided with brakes, for use in Italy. The country's most urgent needs in the matter of coal have, it is understood, been provided for by arrangement with the allies.

Must Not Release Hun Ships

But They Should Be Used to Help Make Good Allied Losses

German ships should not be set free after the war to extend their share of the world's carrying trade and so profit by the losses which their government by means mainly piratical had inflicted upon the ships of the allies. This plan is urged upon the British government in a resolution adopted by the council of the United Kingdom.

The council points out that heavy losses have been suffered by shipping companies at the hands of the Germans. Half of Germany's shipping is declared to be in neutral or other ports, and Germany may have added to its construction or purchase during the war.

The allied countries, the council says, will find themselves short of ships for some time after the war, and declares that while Germany cannot make restitution of all shipping sunk, there is no reason why she should not make restitution in kind to an extent to which she is able.

Native—Same as it is everywhere else—one death for every inhabitant.—Stray Leaves.

Bravery in the Field

Great Skill and Gallantry Shown by Canadians

Bravery in the field among individuals of the Canadian forces is seen on every hand. Some notable instances coming under observation follow:

The lieutenant of a Winnipeg rifle battalion who won the Military Medal in the ranks led his platoon with great skill and gallantry in the storming of the Canal du Nord. He was wounded early in the engagement but remained on duty because the company commander was seriously wounded. He showed splendid coolness and judgment in command of the company, leading it to its objective. In the evening west of Haynecourt the enemy counter attacked and exposed the right flank of the brigade and he, with great tactical skill, formed his company into the right flank. At night he made a daring reconnaissance, and next day, disregarding his warrant when the troops on the right failed to keep up with the advance of his unit, he established contact with the manoeuvring company and thus secured a very dangerous position.

On the following day, discovering that at 9 o'clock all the officers of two companies on his right were casualties, he took charge and led the attack successfully through double belts of wire, swept by shell and machine gun, he personally hauled an entire group, and single handed captured twenty-two prisoners.

When the troops on the eastern flank failed to keep up he connected the line and beat off three enemy counter attacks. At half past two that afternoon he was knocked unconscious by a shell, but recovered two hours later, resumed command and protected the right flank against repeated counter attacks, refusing to evacuate until the battalion was relieved. His determination and coolness won this glorious battle.

A sergeant of the same battalion, during the operations described above, when all the officers in his vicinity became casualties and though sorely wounded in the leg, recognizing the situation was most serious and must be controlled, repaired in a shell hole, whence, though unable to move, he directed the men for ten hours, heartening them by his counsel and refusing to be evacuated until the battalion was relieved. Not only his courage and fortitude, but his cool and accurate messages to headquarters throughout the day saved a very tight corner.

Southeast of Epinoy, on September 28, a private of an Edmonton battalion, on his own initiative, went ahead alone and cut a lane through the enemy wire a distance of 20 yards under a terrific shell and machine gun fire. As the task was completed he was very severely wounded in the leg, but finished it, enabling our attack to go forward and storm an objective.

Finally, here is the story of a major from Vancouver who commanded a Scottish Canadian battalion, who gave up his chance of life that his men might live. This, too, was on October 1 at Cuvillers, where, after skillfully leading in the attack through the darkness until all the objectives were taken, he traversed the entire line, exposing himself fearlessly and reorganizing the battalion, which had lost severely, and consolidating both front and outpost positions in preparation for the pending enemy counter attack. This developed a great fierce on the battalion's left flank while he was in an outpost. He directed the fire of two Lewis guns until all the ammunition was exhausted. Seeing the flank was in danger of being enveloped by masses of the enemy, he ordered the withdrawal of the outpost line, himself remaining until all the men were out of the post. While retiring to the main line of resistance he was severely wounded, but refused to allow his men to stay by him, as the enemy was rapidly surrounding the spot where he lay. His body was recovered later.

A Match Famine in England

Sufficient Supply on Hand if People are Careful

There is a match famine in London and in other centres of Great Britain. The average number of matches available for man, woman and child is six a day.

An official of the match control board says that the question of rationing matches had been considered several times. "It is impracticable," he said, "owing to the necessity for discrimination between the needs of the heavy smoker, the light smoker and the non-smoker."

"The supply of matches is quite sufficient if people will only be careful. Each tradesman receives a proportionate number based on his previous sales, and, if properly retailed, complaints would be very few. No fewer than 100,000,000 matches are distributed throughout the country each year, of which one-third go to the army, navy and Red Cross."

The influx of people to seaside towns and the increased "holiday smoking" is the official explanation of the acute match famine which now exists in London.

The match controller suggests that the public would do well to begin making paper pills for use when the home fires are burning again in the winter months.

The Spirit of the Youngsters

The spirit of the boys who have not yet reached military age has often been discussed. A recent case which has come before public notice is that of a cadet who had been a keen member of his corps for some time, and has never failed to carry out the duties assigned to him. However, after an extra stiff route march a few weeks ago, his company commander noticed that he limped. He questioned him, but the boy said his foot was not blistered. The officer made him take off his boot and sock and, to the amazement, discovered that the lad had a wooden foot!

Deserved His Reward

Splendid Record of United States Aviator

The splendid story of a young aviator—First Lieut. Edwin C. Chamberlain, U. S. Marine Corps—who during a two days' "unofficial" visit to a British aerodrome at the front to gather information won a recommendation for the V.C. and the American Medal of Honor, is told by Mr. John Russell in a report which is issued by the American public information committee. His astonishing record is stated thus:

Took part in a fight with twelve German planes.

Smashed five of them while his own machine was badly crippled.

Shot down two others.

Enabled his British companions to escape.

Swooped out of the air, and charged headlong into a detachment of Hun infantry and routed it.

"Bluffed" three Germans with a fake grenade, and took one of them prisoner.

Rescued a wounded French soldier. Swam a river under fire while he drove a prisoner before him and carried him to safety.

Landed right side up with both crutches in the allied line.

And would not give his name for fear of being scolded.

Saving Sugar

Ample Sugar for All if Regulations are Properly Adhered to

In a statement on the sugar distribution difficulty, the chairman of the Canada food board, Mr. Henry B. Thomson, says:

"Since last May, when the use of sugar in Canada was rigidly cut down, manufacturers, candy makers, public eating places and large users have played the game fairly, and have abided by the rulings of the Canada food board.

Approximately 300,000 tons of sugar will be required in Canada for 1918. Only 13,000 tons of this will be used in the confectionery industry. If the food board issued an order absolutely closing down the factories, we should disorganize the industry and throw hundreds of people out of work.

"If the people in the homes would not put the 'second spoonful' of sugar in their tea and coffee it would save 50,000 tons of sugar a year. This amount is more than four times the sugar allotment to the confectionery manufacturers. It could be done with a little good will.

Notwithstanding the order issued on September 15, there is reason to believe that a large number of people hoard sugar in the homes. It is only a little, possibly, in some cases, but when multiplied by the number of homes in Canada, it is a huge quantity in the aggregate. There is possibly also a good deal of waste which is checked by everyone, would make the situation easier.

"It is for the consumer to 'get in behind' the food board now as the manufacturers have done. There will then be an ample supply of sugar for all."

Italian Fruit Markets

Opportunities Have Not Gone Unnoticed

The question of fresh markets for Italian produce such as fruits and vegetables of all kinds has been a widely debated one, especially so far as the cultivators of Southern Italy are concerned. The opportunities which may lie in the establishment of a cross-channel system of ferry boats between France and England have not gone unnoticed, and it is thought that there might be great possibilities for the Italian producers in this direction. According to some statements made by Signor Mercurio, a member of the Societa Centrale dei Ferryships which have been published in the Giornale d'Italia, Italy may be able to put agricultural produce to the extent of 650,000 tons on the English market annually after the war, where it should find a ready sale. The need for the construction of refrigerator cars for use on the journey is urged as well as for setting up a properly organized system of exports. Great possibilities for expansion and commercial prosperity are anticipated if Italy is ready to take advantage of the opportunity as soon as the war is over.

Seed From Dominion Farms

A Free Distribution of Superior Sorts of Grain Will Be Made

By instructions of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture, a free distribution of superior sorts of grain will be made during the coming winter and spring to Canadian farmers.

The samples for distribution will consist of spring wheat (about 5 lbs.), white oats (about 4 lbs.), barley (about 5 lbs.) and field peas (about 5 lbs.). These will be sent out, free, by mail, from the Central Experimental farm, Ottawa by the Dominion cerealists who will furnish the necessary application forms.

Only one sample can be sent to each applicant. As the supply of seed is limited, farmers are advised to apply very early.

Life Insurance on a Bull

A life insurance policy for $25,000 has been taken out on a pedigreed $75,000 Holstein bull, Mighty Monarch, by Paul E. Brady, "gentleman farmer" of Paterson, New Jersey. Besides the animal is covered with a heavy fire insurance.

Mr. Brady, who is vice-president of the Westinghouse Electric Company, tried to insure the bull, said to be the world's most costly, for his full value, but $25,000 was the limit of risk the underwriters would assume. For this Mr. Brady will have to pay 8 per cent. premium, or $2,000 a year. He has declined to exhibit his prize at recent cattle shows, as he is fearful the bull might be harmed in transit.

France To Need

Food Supplies

Some Crops are Smaller Than Last Year

France will still have to have help in large measure in her food supply for the coming year, and America will have to continue to cut down her normal food consumption, that France may be sustained. The United States food administrator has received the report of an address by M. Boret, the French food controller, delivered in the chamber of deputies, in which he declared that the food value of cereals, beans and potatoes in France is below that of those products for last year. Mr. Boret's remarks, in part, follow:

"It should be stated clearly that the total nutrition value of the 1918 crop of cereals, as well as of beans and potatoes, in France, is below the total food value of these products for last year. The wheat crop, fortunately, is larger and of better quality, but the maize, barley, oats, beans and potato crops are considerably smaller."

The potato situation is particularly grave, for whereas the average for the last 10 years is 12,000,000 long tons, this year the potato crop will not exceed 7,500,000 long tons. Despite this shortage, we must supply the allied troops fighting in our land. We cannot possibly refuse this indispensable food to English and American troops, who are constantly increasing in number."

Girls as Brave as Men

No Holding Back On Part of Women Workers

Is there any sex in patriotism? Eleanor K. McDonnell went to work in a munitions factory to find out and she tells her thrilling story in the September Good Housekeeping. She writes:

"We had arrived at the office and the business of registering was gone through with systematically. One gave one's antecedents; one asserted that one wasn't German, Austrian or Turk. One told whom one wished to have notified in case of accident—all this to a young clerk who interrogated with the fierceness of a prosecuting attorney.

"He means," a facetious guard interjected, "where do you want the body sent if there's anything left to be picked up?" Which wasn't exactly the sanest or most steady method of introducing a batch of nervous novices to the dangers likely to be encountered.

The guard's words were typical of the bravado which pervades the munitions factory. Danger stalks everywhere and yet, seemingly, there is no fear—at least no admission of it.

"Sure, it's dangerous," one girl said with conviction, "but so's aviating. So's being in the trenches, but you ain't seeing the boys holding back any."

That settled it. To be as brave as the boys—that was the uppermost thought.

The foremen also soft-pedal the dangers, because they can't have an efficient working force if it is scared to death before it starts, and yet they have no attempt on the part of the company to enlist the girl in the work under false pretence of its safety. A little pamphlet explaining the hazards is put into the hands of every person employed. What a lot of hazards there are! A fulminate of mercury cap, dropped, may send the whole works sky-high. An oil rag may cause spontaneous combustion. A piece of machinery repaired by an inexperienced person may throw off a spark, and you all go. One shrinks from thinking what a match would do!

From many of the windows in the barracks hang service flags. As I looked at them, the proud display of women whose men are at the front, I could not help wondering why Uncle Sam does not devise a similar insignia for the munition girls.

Filing Sodium

Have Been Staked on the Bottom of the Lake

Farmers and others in the vicinity of Whiteshore Lake, about 60 miles west of Saskatoon, have joined in a small stampede to stake what are claimed to be potash-bearing strata under the lake and on its borders. All the claims are located in township 37, range 16; and township 36, range 15. Whiteshore Lake is a long, narrow body of water about 18 miles in length and from one to three or four miles wide. The claims have been staked on the bottom of the lake and along the shore line.

The claims are being staked as containing "sodium sulphate and other minerals." Although nothing is said regarding the potash in the claims, the words "and other minerals" are intended to include the potash.

The district is not the first one containing sodium salts to be found in Saskatchewan. Several other districts have been located during the past few months.

The Difference

"It is remarkable that so many women should be working."

"Women have always worked," replied Miss Cayenne. "The principal difference just now is that they are working away from home and getting paid for it."—Washington Star.

How the Canadian corps, to fight eighty-four German battalions at Cambrai, is shown in a letter which the minister of militia has received from Major General Sir David Watson, commanding the Fourth Canadian division at the front.

"When one comes to sum it up," Sir David writes, "I find that there were no less than 13 divisions, consisting of eighty-four battalions, pitted against us during the first terrible days. The Boche actually threw in division after division, and unit after unit, regardless of cost, in his attempt to stop our victorious progress. It was actually the hardest fighting that our Canadians have been up against and the manner in which they took these terrible gruellings and stood these assaults during these days, is one of the most creditable occurrences in the annals of this great war."

Sir David actually praises the work of reinforcements, "who had joined up just before these last operations, and who, I am sure, you will be delighted to learn, stood it through so gallantly and courageously, as to fit them to be true comrades in every respect of the gallant men with whom they have become associated."

Sheep Industry

Steadily Growing

Southern Alberta Has Lead Over Saskatchewan and Manitoba in Output of Wool

Notwithstanding the fact that there is equally as much and as good pasture in the northern as in the southern part of the province, the sheep industry has not advanced so far in Northern and Central Alberta as it has in Southern Alberta. Though the industry is steadily growing throughout the whole of the Canadian prairie west, Southern Alberta has a considerable lead over the rest of the province and over Saskatchewan and Manitoba in the output of wool. At the present time nearly two-thirds of the total wool purchased in Western Canada comes from Southern Alberta. But there are signs that a more even distribution of sheep is taking place, due not to any decrease in their number in Southern Alberta but to a proportionately greater increase in other parts.

One of the large sheep breeders of Southern Alberta has recently been investigating conditions in the central part of the province. He is very sincere in his praise of the fodder conditions. He believes thousands of gold dollars are going to waste there every year on account of the small number of sheep on the splendid pastures, and pictures the country in a few years dotted with small sheep ranches. This year sheep have done better there than in the south, and the lambs generally are about a third larger.

The progress of the sheep industry is
